

UN Assembly May Meet Saturday in Emergency Session

But Delegates Expect Debate on Mideast Will Hold Until Monday

United Nations, N. Y. — U. N. delegates predicted today that the general assembly would meet by Saturday to deal with the Middle East crisis but would not get down to debate until next week.

The security council was to meet this afternoon to take up rival U. S. and Soviet resolutions calling the emergency assembly session.

The expectation was that the 11-nation council would approve the U. S. resolution tonight or tomorrow and that the 81-nation assembly would meet Friday or Saturday.

Within 24 Hours

The assembly must be convened within 24 hours after Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld receives a request for an emergency session approved by any seven council members. The permanent council members' veto can not be invoked against a resolution authorizing the assembly session.

Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand, president of the 1957 assembly, will preside over any emergency session. Diplomats predicted that the opening meeting would be routine, that general debate would start Monday or Tuesday and that the session would last 10 days to two weeks.

President Eisenhower told his news conference Wednesday he would make an appearance if he found it necessary or desirable. Russians at the United Nations said they doubted that Soviet Premier Khrushchev would come to New York.

U. S. Plan

Informed sources said the United States would put forward a plan which would operate through the United Nations to stabilize the Middle East. The objectives would be to deal with the problems of Arab nationalism, water shortage and Palestine Arab refugees.

The American and Soviet resolutions to call the assembly in session were introduced nearly three weeks ago when the council was unable to take action on the Middle East crisis. They were shelved when Khrushchev proposed a 5-power summit conference and the big powers maneuvered.

Khrushchev finally rejected the U. S. - British proposal for a summit meeting of the security council and demanded instead that the emergency assembly session be held.

The American resolution would call on the assembly for recommendations concerning Lebanon's May 22 complaint that the United Arab Republic was inciting, arming and reinforcing rebels trying to oust Lebanon's pro-western President Camille Chamoun.

Diplomatic sources said this most likely would be revised today to mention also Jordan's complaint July 17 that the U. A. R. was interfering in that country's affairs by plotting to overthrow King Hussein.

Envoy Ignores Nasser's Snub

Terms Meeting With Egyptian Leader Very Satisfactory

Cairo — Showing no outward resentment at the initial snubbing he got from President Nasser, special U. S. Envoy Robert Murphy said today their 4-hour conference was "very friendly, very satisfactory."

Nasser kept the U. S. deputy under secretary of state waiting until mid-evening Wednesday before he would receive him. But Murphy said they had a "very thorough, very friendly, very satisfactory" conversation ranging over a large number of subjects.

President Eisenhower sent Murphy to the Middle East on the heels of the U. S. landing in Lebanon to help work out a political settlement among the Lebanese and to survey the U. S. position in the area. The American diplomat flew today to Addis Ababa, the Ethiopian capital, and goes to Greece tomorrow.

High Estimate
"I feel personally I now have a much better appreciation and understanding of the problems here," Murphy said. "It was a very satisfactory evening."

AEC Maps Plans For New Tests

Albuquerque, N. M. — The atomic energy commission plans to set off a kung-size underground atomic explosion next summer under a Carlsbad salt flat.

A 10 kiloton bomb — nearly six times larger than that used in previous underground explosions — will be set off 25 miles southeast of Carlsbad if plans go through.

Aim of the project — Project Gnome, named for the little, mythical men — will be to check out possible peaceful uses of atomic explosions for use in mining, excavating and creation of radioactive isotopes.

The blast will take place 1,200 feet underground.

15 Crewmen Die in Collision Of Two Tankers

Navy Swings Into Rescue Operation And Fire Fighting

Newport, R. I. — Two tankers collided and burst into flames today in a thick fog at the entrance to Newport harbor. The navy immediately swung into a rescue operation combined with a battle to quench flames on one tanker which contained 650,000 gallons of gasoline.

The tragedy took 15 lives. Twenty-six crewmen were hospitalized — mostly from flame-seared bodies. Estimates of missing ranged up to 12.

The dead included Capt. Montreville Eden, of Port Arthur, Tex., skipper of the SS Gulfport; Second Mate Raymond C. Day of the Gulfport; and Quartermaster Colbert Banks both also of Port Arthur, and Stafford McKensie, of New York, an oiler — all aboard the Gulfport.

Nine bodies were found huddled together in a compartment aboard the Gulfport. Firefighting efforts were devoted mainly to the second tanker, the S. E. Graham which contained the gasoline. Navy tugs battled for several hours before controlling the flames.

Helicopters were called into play to remove the more seriously injured to the U. S. public health hospital in Boston.

The SS Gulfport, 10,347 tons, was outbound empty from Providence for Port Arthur, Texas, when she struck the port bow of the 250-foot motor tanker S. E. Graham, inbound from Newark, N. J., with nearly 22,000 barrels of gasoline.

Both ships caught fire and were beached while navy tugs battled the flames.

Kidnapper to Die Tonight At Sing Sing

Ossining, N. Y. — John Angelo LaMarca, his legal pleas exhausted in the kidnapping - killing of little Peter Weinberger, is scheduled to die tonight in Sing Sing prison's electric chair.

La Marca, 33-year-old LaMarca's final hope, as he paces his death house cell, is last minute action by Gov. Averell Harriman. Harriman has not acted on a mercy plea which LaMarca made about a year ago. But the governor could step in any time before the execution.

At New Haven, Conn., Wednesday Judge Carroll C. Hincks of the U. S. circuit court of appeals, turned down a final move by defense counsel.

Taipei Echoes With Warnings of War

Nationalists on Formosa Report Clash With MIGs; Troops Ready

Taipei, Formosa — The Chinese Nationalist air force reported a clash with communist MIG17's near Quemoy today, but said its planes returned to Formosan bases unscathed.

The report came as Formosa echoed with warnings of war. Nationalist ground, air and sea forces were poised in combat readiness for any thrust from the red mainland. Air force headquarters said two formations of Nationalist planes on patrol over Formosa strait were attacked by more than 10 of the swift, late model jet fighters. The MIGs then disappeared westward over the mainland.

The encounter was the first of its kind since July 29 when two Nationalist thunderjets were shot down by MIG17's.

Various Nationalist spokesmen reported:
1. All Nationalist China — Formosa, the Pescadores and the island outposts off the communist mainland — is in a state of emergency.
2. Special precautions against sabotage are being taken at all strategic points, such as bridges and arms plants.
3. Troops manning Formosa's coastal defenses have been reinforced.
4. Nationalist ground, sea and air forces are in full combat readiness.
5. Air raid precautions were urged on the public.

Human Torch, Frank Kierdorf, Dies of Burns

Death Comes as Officials Pick Apart His Story

Fontaine, Mich. — Frank Kierdorf died today shortly after Michigan Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams said the Teamsters union official became a human torch while trying to set fire to a cleaning shop at nearby Flint.

Death came at 12:35 for the 36-year-old Teamster business agent. He had lapsed into a coma while Adams was holding a series of news conferences that shattered the union official's story he was set afire by two strangers.

Adams said a witness, an unidentified Port Huron man whose whereabouts were a closely guarded secret, told him he had seen explosions and heard pained cries at the Flint blaze Sunday night.

Two hours later, Kierdorf, his body charred from head-to-foot, walked into a hospital here. He puzzled police with a story that he had been doused with flammable fluid, ignited with a match and tossed on the hospital lawn.

Police and Adams turned up many loopholes in his statements and the attorney general said he was positive Kierdorf really was burned in the fire at Flint.

Earlier today Adams said he is also convinced that Herman Kierdorf, Frank's 68-year-old uncle, was "in on the deal."

Adams linked the burning with an explosion and fire Sunday night at the Latreille cleaners at Flint.

Possible Motives
Adams said he would not discuss possible motives. Adams entered the investigation Wednesday at the request of Gov. G. Mennen Williams.

Adams, who questioned witnesses throughout the night, said, "We are left with the following theories: That this was an organized attempt as

Truman Doubts Effectiveness of Summit Meeting

Chicago — Former President Harry S. Truman doubts that a summit conference with Russian leaders could result in any change of a Soviet campaign against "the peace and security of the free nations."

"What we need is not a propaganda meeting, but a change in Russian policy," Truman told the convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles Wednesday.

Committee Finds Conflict In Testimony of Teamster Boss and Former Fighter

Washington — The senate rackets committee today raised a question whether Teamster Boss James R. Hoffa had perjured himself in testimony before it. The issue was sent to the justice department.

Perjury — false testimony under oath — is punishable by up to five years imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said there was a direct conflict between testimony by Hoffa last year and testimony heard this morning from Detroit heavyweight boxer Emory Davidson.

Hoffa swore last fall that no Teamster funds ever were paid to Davidson.

Davidson testified today he drew $75 a week for nearly two years from the Michigan Teamsters union welfare fund but did no work for it.

At the time, Davidson, once considered a good heavyweight prospect, was managed by Owen J. (Bert) Brennan, a Teamsters vice president.

Brennan was called to the witness stand and invoked the Fifth amendment in refusing to answer any questions about the boxer.

Brennan also refused to answer any questions about testimony naming him as associating with a fight fixer and a dope peddler.

The committee recessed for lunch with an announcement that Hoffa would be called to the witness chair in the afternoon.

Committee Counsel Robert Kennedy read from the record of last fall in which Hoffa specifically testified that Davidson was not paid from any union funds.

Another witness was Sam Marrosso, a convicted extortionist, who took the Fifth amendment when asked whether he split his shake-down profits with high teamster officials.

Marrosso also declined to say whether he had any conversations with Hoffa on getting out of prison in 1955 and he refused to say whether he was secretly put on the Teamsters payroll in violation of his parole terms.

Hoffa's Affairs
For the third day, the committee was exploring Hoffa's affairs with a technique of putting on witnesses for questioning about a specific incident, then following up by calling on Hoffa to give his version of the matter.

Hoffa sat silently with his lawyers, near the witness table, as Marrosso took the Fifth amendment over and over, pleading that his answers might tend to incriminate him.

The committee placed in evidence documents subpoenaed from Hoffa.

Two Fined for Tippy Driving

Robert Mirkes Pays $150 After Changing Plea From Innocent

Two men today were fined and had their drivers licenses revoked for one year for drunken driving.

Robert C. Mirkes, 25, 1609 N. Harrison street, paid a $150 fine after changing a previous innocent plea to guilty. He was arrested by county police Nov. 3, 1957, after a 2-car collision on Badger School road in the town of Grand Chute. He refused the drunkometer test.

Ronald L. Ludwig, 23, route 1, Kaukauna, was fined $125. He failed to stop for a stop sign in Center Valley about 9 o'clock Tuesday night and ran into a car.

Ludwig tested 32 on the drunkometer. A reading of 13 is considered evidence of intoxication. He became sick in the jail and tore off a sink during some unruly behavior, jailers said.

Alabama Mayor Shot, Killed From Ambush

Saratoga, Ala. — Mayor O. L. Driver was fatally shot from ambush in the driveway of his home Wednesday night.

Officers said an assailant apparently waited in a clump of bushes until Driver, returning from work, pulled into his driveway. The 36-year-old mayor was shot with what officers believed to be buckshot from close range through the rear window of his car.

One Drawback
He does admit to a drawback.

"If aging slows down, so do other functions of the body," he said. "The heart-beat may drop from 72 times a minute to 72 times an hour or even day. The body temperature would drop. If it drops say 11 to 12 degrees, the person may die."

Man Shoots and Kills 2 Neighborhood Girls, Then Takes Own Life

Leaksville, N.C. — Authorities sought today to pierce the mystery of why 27-year-old Davis Edgar Alley killed two little neighborhood girls and himself in a burst of gunfire.

Mary Jane Dalton, 9, and her sister, Frances, 7, went to the Alley home yesterday. They wanted to use the telephone to call the local hospital to inquire about their mother who had just given birth to a child.

Moments later, a series of shots rang out.

Alley's wife, returning from a neighbor's house, found her husband sprawled unconscious across a bed with a bullet through his head.

Dulles Due Back to Speed Policy Work

Ends Flying Visit to Brazil
To Help Develop Proposals for Neutralization of Middle East

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington — U.S. Secretary of State Dulles is due back from Brazil today to speed work on development of new U. S. policies for the Middle East. These may aim at neutralizing the area in the cold war.

State department officials said today efforts are being made to develop practical proposals by which the unstable, strategic area could be insulated from the Soviet-western power struggle. Some referred to the process as trying to find a way to bring about a disengagement of the great powers in the Middle East.

Dulles left here Sunday on a flying trip to confer with Brazilian President Juscelino Kubitschek. He was due back in early afternoon and was expected to report promptly to President Eisenhower.

Official sources in Rio de Janeiro said Dulles and Kubitschek agreed on a conference of the 21 American presidents to be held later this year, although a formal communiqué made no mention of such a meeting. Detailed planning reportedly was left to the Washington ambassadors of the various nations in this hemisphere.

But of more immediate import is the preparation of a set of U. S. proposals for dealing with Middle Eastern problems.

The U. N. security council meets in New York today to arrange for an emergency meeting of the U. N. general assembly. Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev suggested this—and Eisenhower accepted it—instead of an immediate summit meeting within the security council.

Eisenhower told a news conference yesterday that he would go to the assembly if he found it necessary or desirable.

No hint from Moscow Administration officials reported there was no hint from Moscow that Khrushchev had any intention of attending. Shou dte president and the Soviet premier both show up other leaders, including British Prime Minister Macmillan, would almost certainly attend. That would set the stage for a summit conference.

Kennedy Hails Welfare Fund Bill Passage

Says It Assures
This Congress

Washington—U.S. Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) today hailed house passage of an employee pension and welfare fund disclosure bill as assuring legislation in the field at this session of congress.

The house passed the measure by voice vote late yesterday after turning down a proposal to eliminate employer-run plans. The senate cleared the bill 88-0 on April 28 with Kennedy as its chief sponsor.

"I welcome the house action because it means we will get a bill this session," Kennedy told a reporter. "But the senate version is a stronger bill and I hope we can restore at least a part of the senate language."

Normally a senate-house conference is named to compromise differences between the two houses, but Kennedy said it is possible the senate will just accept the house bill as the best it is possible to get this year.

Test Amendment
The key house test was on an amendment to exempt those plans under which management—alone or through an insurance company—guarantees a fixed level of benefits to the employees. These make up about 90 per cent of the total in effect. The others are controlled by labor unions or are jointly administered by management and labor.

Both versions of the legislation would require fund administrators to file with the secretary of labor comprehensive reports on the makeup of each plan plus annual data on its financial operations. These would be open to the public.

The senate bill would give the secretary subpoena power to investigate the accuracy of the reports. He also could seek federal court injunctions where necessary to enforce the act, and could prescribe the form of the reports.

The house bill would merely direct the secretary to receive the plans and make them available in a public reading room.

Kay will remain at the hospital for about three weeks after the operation. She has promised the donors "to have you all out to the house when I get home."

After her recovery, Kay plans to attend Carroll college in Waukesha and hopes to become a laboratory technician.

Top Soviet Composer Writes First Light Musical Comedy

London—U.S. Dmitri Shostakovich has been both warmly praised and vigorously condemned by Soviet critics. After the advent of his post-war opera "October" he was forced to make a public apology for his ideological mistakes. His opera "Lady Mahenski" was reported to have irked Stalin.

Later, Shostakovich penned a cantata praising Stalin's grandiose plan to transform the nature. It sang the praise of the new Kuibyshev hydro-electric project.

For years it was the capital's Greenwich village. It now is being developed as a major modern housing center. Praised, Condemned

The broadcast said Shostakovich's new work would be staged by the Moscow musical comedy theater. No date was announced.

Tennessee Democrats to Pick Officials

Senator, Governor
Nominations to End
Hard-Fought Primary

Nashville, Tenn. —U.S. Tennessee Democrats nominate a U. S. senator and a governor today, capping the hardest fought primary race in recent years.

The senate contest was between incumbent Albert Gore, regarded in his home state as a middle-of-the-roader, and a Prentice Cooper, a 3-term former governor and political conservative.

Four candidates sought the 4-year term as governor. Gov. Frank Clement was ineligible for re-election. The race developed few issues other than the Clement administration's record.

Buford Ellington, who serves as agriculture commissioner for nearly two terms in the Clement cabinet, had the governor's endorsement. Opposing him were Mayor Edmund Orgill of Memphis, Circuit Judge Andrew T. Taylor of Jackson and State Sen. Clifford Allen of Nashville.

Tennessee has no runoff primary in case no candidate receives a majority vote, so the high man in today's balloting wins the nomination—which is equivalent to election in this Democratic state.

750,000 Voters
An estimated 750,000 Tennesseans were expected to vote. Polls begin closing at 4 p. m. (CST) in rural areas with the metropolitan areas remaining open in most cases until 9 p. m.

All nine of Tennessee's congressmen—two Republicans and seven Democrats—sought renomination. Six were unopposed.

In addition, voters will decide if a constitutional convention should be called to consider lowering the voting age to 18.

Cooper flailed away at Gore's failure to sign the southern manifesto and for supporting the civil rights bill last year. The former ambassador to Peru also accused Gore of supporting a global giveaway program.

Gore, who won his senate seat in 1952 by defeating the late Sen. Kenneth McKellar, defended his record. He pointed to his leadership in highway construction legislation and support of the reciprocal trade program begun by the late Cordell Hull.

The only Republican opposition for the two top statewide posts is Hansel Profit of Sevierville, who was unopposed for the gubernatorial nomination in today's GOP primary.

Claim 'Western Draw' Game Killed Airman

Madison —U.S. An air force court martial Wednesday received the defendant's earlier statement which explained that a Wisconsin airman was shot to death during a game of "western draw" with .45 caliber pistols.

50-Year-Old Arraigned on Robbery Charge

Wausau—U.S. A silver-haired bandit, who used a mechanical pencil as a weapon, told police a "spur of the moment impulse" prompted him to rob the Bancroft State bank of $2,450.

"It's no use delaying it," said Orrin Sandberg, 50-year-old farmer-welder, when arraigned here Wednesday on a federal bank robbery charge 10 hours and 15 minutes after he walked out of the tiny bank with his loot stuffed into a paper bag.

Unable to post $5,000 bond, he was ordered held in the Wausau city jail pending transfer today to Madison. He appeared before U. S. Commissioner Robert J. Schmidt. Sandberg, who lived on a 140-acre farm at route 2, Eleva, in Trempealeau county,

Wisconsin Man Dies in Crash Of Jet Plane

Del Rio, Texas —U.S. Lt. Paul Haugland, 27, Superior, Wis., was killed Wednesday when his jet plane crashed and burned as he concluded a low-level training flight near Laughlin Air Force base.

The plane plunged to the earth one mile north of the base while Haugland was making his final pass at the runway. The cause of the crash was not determined immediately.

Haugland's widow and two small sons live at Del Rio. He had been stationed at Laughlin for 2½ years.

Haugland was flying a U2, a ship normally used for high-altitude weather reconnaissance. The air force grounded all planes of that type after two crashed last month. Laughlin authorities said U2 flights were resumed only Monday.

2 Jap Ships Return; Got Radioactive Rain After U. S. Testing

Nation Grows Increasingly Bitter About Nuclear Weapons Trials

Tokyo —U.S. Two Japanese ships showered with radioactive rain in the Pacific returned home today to a nation showing increasing bitterness toward American nuclear weapon tests.

Physical examinations were immediately ordered for all crew members of the oceanographic survey ships Satsuma and Takuyo. They will be kept under observation for a week.

American and Australian doctors who examined the crews in New Britain reported they suffered no harmful effects from the radioactive dusting they suffered July 14 after a U.S. test at Eniwetok.

Preliminary examinations today by a Japanese scientific team tended to bear out the U. S. Australian report. The Japanese experts said contamination of the boats appeared negligible "because of the extremely fine manner in which the problem of contamination was dealt with as soon as it was discovered."

The two captains had their crews scrub down the ships continuously for several days after the mishap.

Not Alarming
One examining doctor said he didn't believe the crewmen's cases very alarming and another said he thought they "were not harmed as much as we anticipated."

But Japan, the only nation to know first hand the horrors of atomic bombing, feels any radioactivity at all is suspect.

Announcement of the radioactive dusting of the Satsuma and Takuyo brought no repetition of the angry outburst over the 1954 dusting of the Japanese fishing boat Lucky Dragon.

Deep resentment is clearly obvious, however, due partly perhaps to the coincidence that the two coast guard ships returned a day after the 13th anniversary of the Hiroshima atomic bombing and six days before the anniversary of the Nagasaki bombing.

Suspend Surveys
Japan has announced it will suspend further International Geophysical Year (IGY) surveys such as the Satsuma and Takuyo were making. Foreign Minister Aichiyo Fujimura stated Japan wants compensation from the United States. Prime Minister Kishi said Japan would step up its campaign for an immediate unconditional end to nuclear weapon tests.

The Satsuma-Takuyo incident likely will be debated by the fourth world conference against atomic and hydrogen bombs, opening in Tokyo Aug. 12. Leftist elements have used the conference in the past for a sounding board.

The Japan seamen's union sent President Eisenhower a message saying the Satsuma-Takuyo incident has "stricken Japanese seamen with terror."

Jazz Trumpeter Found Playing at Night Club

Long Beach, Calif. —U.S. Jazz trumpeter Ziggy Elman, reported missing by his wife, was located early today at a night club here.

"What's all this jazz that I'm missing?" he asked a newsman. "I've never played better in my life."

Elman, 44, was reported missing from his Van Nuys home early yesterday by his wife, Ruby. She said he left Monday night because of a family argument.

The musician, who went into semi-retirement three years ago because of a heart ailment, has been operating a music school.

"The squabble started because my wife wanted me to keep on teaching instead of playing," he said.

He said he went to the club — 35 miles from his home — and has been rehearsing for his opening tonight.

"We didn't know anyone was looking for him," said club operator Joe Graydon. "Why, as a gag we had him stand up, take a bow and be introduced to the people as trumpeter Red Nichols."

Other Bids McCarthy priced the N. Lawe work at $3,266.75. Parker had the N. Oneida project at $27,639.80 and the alley at $3,175.

Other bidders, projects and prices are Buchman Construction company, alley, $3,302; N. Lawe, $3,218; N. Oneida, $32,538.40; Gresl Construction company, alley, $3,465; N. Lawe, $3,181; N. Oneida, $28,377.35; Holtz and Bass, alley, $3,664.25; N. Lawe, $3,148; N. Oneida, $33,646.80; and Murphy Construction company, Black Creek, alley, $3,320; N. Lawe, $3,115.50; N. N. Lawe will be widened to 41 feet. It is 32 feet now. Included in the project is removal of seven trees, a tree stump and present curb and gutter. An estimated 500 feet of sidewalk and a driveway will have to be replaced.

The alley, 20 feet wide, will get an 8-inch thick concrete pavement.

Hold Sewer Award The bids were referred to Director of Public Works Edwin J. Duszynski for tabulation and probably will be returned to the board within the next two weeks.

Gresl Construction was apparent low bidder on storm sewer work, quoting $13,910.86.

Other bidders and prices are Charles A. Green and Son, $14,967.50; Brennan-Rolland Excavators, Inc., Cato, $15,763.80; J. O. Johnson, $18,021.95; John McHugh, $18,108.78; A. J. Kienast and Sons, Oshkosh, $18,892; and Faulks Brothers Construction company, Weyauwega, $22,492.

A decision on an award was withheld pending a decision on claims that Gresl failed to file true copies of payroll records as required in a contract under which he worked last year.

Sewer Locations The storm sewers will be installed in the Bellaire park ravine and on Winona Way from a half block south of Nawada court to Winona court, E. Nevada street from Nawada court to Winona Way, W. Pershing street from N. Division street to N. Erb street, W. Lindbergh street from N. Division street to N. Richmond street, W. Rogers avenue from S. Herbert street west to the end of the street, and on S. Herbert from W. Pine street to W. Rogers.

Joseph Van Daalwyk, route 3, Kaukauna, was low bidder on sewer and water laterals for S. Tehulal avenue from E. Fremont street to E. Calumet street. He quoted $4.50 a foot. Gresl's price was $4.75 a foot and McHugh's the same.

Gresl was low bidder, at $4.60 a foot, on laterals for E. Jardin street from N. Plateau street east 230 feet and for N. Appleton street from 2280 N. Appleton to W. Lindbergh street. Van Daalwyk quoted $4.76 a foot on both streets and McHugh, $4.75 a foot on both streets.

Award of a contract on E. Jardin and N. Appleton was withheld pending outcome of the claims against Gresl.

Reject Two Bids

Bids of Cities Service Oil company, Milwaukee, and Standard Oil company, Green Bay, to furnish fuel oil at the police station, sewage treatment plant, fire stations Nos. 2 and 3 and for relief department clients were rejected because a $50 performance bond required in the specifications, was missing.

Bids to furnish the oil, and/or coal for city hall, fire station No. 1, the street department and the city home, were submitted by J. P. Laux and Son Fuel company, Marston Brothers company, United Oil company, Sinclair Refining company, Chicago. They were referred to City Clerk Elden J. Broehm for tabulation.

One informal bid was received for 10 second floor windows on the west side of city hall and for six aluminum storm windows and screens for city hall attic. The bidder, Eagle Insulation, Window and Door company, was awarded the contract, involving $642.

Area Planners Receive Offers From 4 Firms

Proposals to Make Master Plan to be Considered Tonight

Pre-proposals from four outside planning agencies to make a master plan of the Fox Cities region have been received by Clarence Hammond, director of the Fox Valley Regional Planning commission.

They will be considered at a meeting of the executive committee at 7:30 tonight in the planning office in Kimberly.

Commission Chairman Charles Wood, Kimberly, and Hammond, contacted the other planning firms after some commission members, notably the town of Grand Chute, said they would like to see other proposals than the one received from Metropolitan Planners, Inc. of Indianapolis.

Other Business Metropolitan has offered to make the plan for $73,000. The other offers will be presented at tonight's meeting.

Other business will be consideration of a budget for the fiscal year beginning Sept. 1. Stephen Baisch, Kaukauna, is chairman of the finance committee.

A compromise plan in which the local regional planning office would take part in making a master plan with Metropolitan also is up for discussion. Prepared by Hammond, the compromise proposal was held over from the last committee meeting. A report from the education committee is expected.

Nixon at Summit May be Powerful

His Hand Is More Heavy in Administration Than It Appears

BY WILLIAM S. WHITE

Washington — If we go to a summit conference over the Middle East — or any other kind of high-level meeting involving heads of state — Vice President Richard M. Nixon will be an unseen but powerful participant, even though he will no doubt be absent in the purely physical sense.

In all that has thus far gone on inside the Eisenhower administration on the summit issue, Nixon's hand has been far heavier than has appeared from the outside.

Actually, he is already serving as a sort of assistant general manager in charge of propaganda and domestic intelligence for the summit enterprise. To him, the president, Secy. of State John Foster Dulles and the White House staff have repeatedly turned for certain estimates.

These estimates have had to do with how the American and foreign publics were responding to each necessary turn in the American approach to what is already a deeply intent contest with the Kremlin for face and credit with the uncommitted world.

And if a summit conference — or anything like it, in fact if not in form — should actually come off, the President's main adviser on the vital matters of public reactions and public relations would be Richard M. Nixon. The vice president, in short, would be a highly significant member of "the team," even though almost certainly he would not attend the conference.

His specialty is the intuitive sensing of what ordinary people think — or merely feel — at this or that stage of a public controversy. In this intuition Nixon, approve him or not, is a master — incomparably abler than any other member of the administration, including Eisenhower himself.

Many times the Vice President has exercised that skill. He reached Congress 12 years ago mainly because he sensed the postwar American public would be responsive to attacks on the alleged influence of communism — or left-wingism — on our public policy.

Those who have followed his career have never known him to err seriously in a private assessment of public attitudes. All this being so, there is special interest now in the vice president's situation. It may be described as follows:

He was more intimately a part of the administration's decision to send troops into Lebanon than he has ever been on any high policy determination.

He wholly supported that decision and wholly supports it now. He seems confident the public does likewise. And as he backed the Lebanon operation without reservation, he is now backing the president's reluctant agreement, under certain conditions, to meet with the Russians.

lose out with the world public only if we allowed the conference to fall into a mere shouting match with the Russians. He is quite certain that this will not be allowed to occur.

As to domestic politics, no one accuses the administration of sending the troops, or agreeing to a summit meeting, for partisan motives. All the same, there will be political byproducts.

Too, he is conscious that a sour summit conference, followed by more and more world troubles, would certainly do the Republicans no good in the 1960 presidential contest — in which he himself is likely to be the Republican nominee.

It is no less clear, however, that a success at the summit, followed by a more tranquil world, would be most helpful to the Republicans in 1960. (Copyright, 1958)

A 13-year-old Nichols boy is back home after spending slightly over a week in the Outagamie county jail. Welfare and sheriff's office authorities were wary of sending him home because of his run-away record in the past.

Objects to Annulment For Bergman

Rome — The Rome prosecutor has filed an appeal against the court ruling annulling the proxy marriage of Ingrid Bergman and Roberto Rossellini.

The clerk of the appellate court said Prosecutor Martino Ferralolo contended that the Rome district court had "no jurisdiction or authority" for its July 10 decision ending the marriage of the Swedish actress and the Italian film director. Filing the appeal prevents the annulment decree from becoming final. There was no immediate indication how long it would take the higher court to rule on the objection.

Miss Bergman recently announced she would marry Lars Schmidt, a wealthy Swede, as soon as she was legally free from Rossellini. Ferralolo filed a bulky brief outlining and documenting his arguments against the annulment. It was not immediately available to the press. Sued for Annulment Rossellini had sued to end the marriage. He contended that Miss Bergman's Mexican proxy divorce which preceded their proxy marriage had not been legally valid and therefore she still was the legal wife of her first husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom.

Miss Bergman did not contest the suit. She and the director had separated after he became involved with the wife of an Indian film man while Rossellini was in India making movies for the Indian government.

Confused American Policy Caused Problems for West

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN

New York—American thinking on the Middle East has been befuddled by labels and lines.

The result is that on the verge of a fateful summit meeting United States policy in the Arab east seems a mass of confusion.

The hour is late, but American policy still can profit by taking a candid look at its own weaknesses. If the United States fails to do this, the sense of frustration behind many Arab actions conceivably can bring about a situation with grave consequences for western Europe.

The waves of nationalism and Nasserism are not as such the main U. S. concern. It is rather how to prevent these forces from leading to a clear Soviet breakthrough. And how to prevent the Russians from capitalizing on unending turmoil to the extent that one day they can hope for a commanding influence over the area's resources.

For years American policy makers seemed to approach the Middle East as if they were dealing with the practical minded citizens of West Germany.

The United States seemed to see no issue but communism and anti-communism. Anything not totally down the line for U. S. policy in the Middle East became anti-western.

Americans applied terms like "leftist" or "conservative" to the area in the naive faith that these words had some meaning there.

Pact Efforts Fail

For years the United States, captivated by the notion that hypothetical military lines were protection against violent ideas, attempted to push Arab countries into military pacts. The attempts failed.

This is the last of four articles dealing with the underlying situation in the Middle East, where several countries enforce censorship. William L. Ryan spent three months in the area and wrote his uncensored articles after reaching the United States.

The United States then helped put together an agreement called the Baghdad pact, ironically taking its name from a city where it was opposed by probably 90 per cent of the literate population. This pact was supposed to be a bulwark against communism, but Arab nationalists saw it as an excuse to perpetuate western military power in the Arab world.

Invariably the United States and Britain turned up on the side of unpopular men, causes and regimes. To the United States, Nuri Said of Iraq was pro-western. Therefore he deserved all-out support. To many Arabs, Nuri Said was a one-time heroic Arab nationalist leader who surrendered his right to leadership by becoming a creature of British policy. American policy refused to face up to the fact that Nuri's dictatorship was opposed by an overwhelming majority of Iraq's literate population.

In Jordan, Young King Hussein ruled a country created by the British arbitrarily from Arab territory — a strange little country with no real reason for existence. Hussein was "anti-communist." Therefore he was entitled to all-out American support.

Bad Investment

Only British-American support keeps the courageous young king alive.

The United States has invested heavily in Hussein — about $130 million. All this was committed since 1953, and more than half of it since the April, 1957, crisis. The cost is mounting. To protect the shaky investment, the United States must spend more and more.

American diplomacy permitted itself to be frightened by Arab nationalism and panicked by the threat of communism. This produced a doctrine purporting to defend the Arabs against the threat of communist military attack, but no military attack seemed in prospect while the communists were making strides with their political and economic infiltration.

When an internal political fight between out and ins broke out in Lebanon, U. S. policy immediately professed to see pro-western and anti-western outlines in it. It did not start that way. Indeed, much of the rebel opposition was definitely anti-communist and friendly to the west.

The policy tended to force the rebels more and more into attitudes inimical to the west. Lacking any understanding from Washing-ality rather than to a principle. The United States cast its lot with President Camille Chamoun, whom the opposition suspected of wanting to perpetuate himself in office.

By the time the Iraqi explosion came there seemed little for the United States and Britain to do but intervene with force in Lebanon and Jordan. But for British intervention in Jordan Hussein likely would have shared the fate of his slain cousin, Faisal of Iraq. Without American intervention in Lebanon, it is likely the Iraqi eruption would have produced a shot in the arm for a rebel push to overthrow Chamoun by force.

American Errors

There is some thought that the intervention may have forestalled a Soviet plan to infiltrate "volunteers" into Lebanon from the Moslem Soviet areas of central Asia.

But the need for intervention, with its melancholy parallels to the Soviet action in Hungary, arose in part at least as the result of a long series of American miscalculations. It is questionable whether intervention served American policy in the long run.

Arab nationalism will not be stopped by force. Force simply will make it eager to rally itself under the banner of extreme Nasserism.

Up to now the Russians have enjoyed themselves in the Middle East situation. With a summit meeting in prospect, they will continue to enjoy themselves unless the United States dramatically seizes the initiative.

Nasser's 'Nationalism' Got Friends; Now His Imperialism Loses Them

BY GEORGE SOKOLSKY

New York — Nationalism is the expression of the will of a people to be unified in their political life. In most instances, nationalism is strongest among the smaller and weaker peoples, those who have had the experience of being a colony or new states that have recently come into existence either by revolution or partition. Nationalism is weakest in such countries as the United States and Great Britain which seek a comity of peoples.

Nationalism is normal in history whether one thinks of the city states of Greece, the revolt of Bar Kochba against Rome, the emergence of the national states of Europe after the French Revolution, the establishment of Israel after almost 2,000 years of diaspora or the emergence of Arab nationalism in the crescent of fertility which surrounds the desert, held captive in the Ottoman empire.

Such peoples as the Armenians or the Kurds or the Jews who have long been without lands of their own have maintained the strongest nationalistic concepts, often associ-ed with religious sectarianism. They remain not only unconquered but resistant to absorption because of this nationalistic motivation which is subject neither to analysis nor logical explanation. It is one of the facts of history that exists because it exists.

Won Sympathy
Nasser's Egyptianism at first gave the appearance of a revival of Egyptian nationalism and won sympathy for its cause because there was a deep sympathy for the so-called underdog nations fighting for nationalism. Thus, Nasser evoked sympathy and friendship.

But he soon emerged as an imperialist of Hitleresque characteristics. His book "Philosophy of the Revolution" mimics "Mein Kampf," and his desire to build an Arab state from the Atlantic to Pakistan is mindful of the Nordic postulates of Hitler, Rosenberg and the dreamer Nazis.

Just Master
Not a single Arab state was liberated by Nasser or by a revolutionary movement. The 12 of them, all freed from the Ottoman empire, were products of western grants of independence and sovereignty. True, the motives of the west were not charitable, but a fact is a fact whatever the motive.

Nasser's United Arab Republic is Nasser. There is no state; there is only a single, individual master.

The danger that Israel faces is that sooner or later it could be absorbed by Nasser into the United Arab Republic. This has been made possible by the American attitude during the Suez crisis, an attitude which is now generally admitted to have been an error. The resistance to Nasser in Lebanon, the willingness of the new government of Iraq to recognize its obligations to the west, the unwillingness of Libya, Sudan and Tunis to join him, are signboards of the emerging Middle Eastern opposition to Nasser.

After all, Israel, Turkey and Iran are not Arab states at all; many of the African states, such as Algeria, Morocco, and Tunisia have western orientations and will not submit to Nasser's dictation.

It is impossible for Israel to organize a coalition with any Arab states because of the accelerated public opinion in Arab countries by radio and newspapers out of Cairo and Damascus. It would, for instance, be to the interest of such a country as Jordan to form an alliance with Israel, but that would now not be possible.

Protection for Jordan
Nevertheless, as Nasser goes too far in accumulating Arab states, Jordan will soon be forced to build protective against possible destruction. After all, Israel does have an effective military force and widespread diplomatic and political capacity.

The United States has guaranteed the independence of Israel, of the Baghdad pact countries, and Great Britain is in the Baghdad pact and is pledged to Jordan. Therefore it is not possible for the United States or Great Britain to refrain from impeding Nasser's imperialism; for they are pledged to support emerging nationalism of all the countries in this area, including the non-Arabic countries of Israel, Turkey and Iran.

This is a realistic view of the Middle Eastern situation, one that will face both Eisenhower and Khrushchev at Geneva when they meet. Out of it can come war; out of it may also come a discouragement for the further development of Nasser imperialism which is beneficial neither for the United States nor Soviet Russia in the long run.

Social Security Benefits May Get Boost

It appears certain now that Congress will boost both social security benefits and the taxes to pay the increased benefits. The House recently approved such a bill by a vote of 275 to 2 and the leaders of the Senate appear anxious to do likewise. Although Finance Chairman Byrd is reluctant to act, he is reported to be under heavy pressure from other Senate leaders and it is a good bet there will be action.

Congress has increased social security benefits every election year since 1952. The House bill would increase benefits about 7 per cent with a minimum boost of $3 per month. Workers earning the top amount of covered wages would be eligible for $118 per month instead of the $108.50 now provided. Others, previously retired with top wage status would also receive this increase. Later the amount would go up to $127. The bill also proposes to change the minimum benefit from $30 to $33 and the maximum family benefit from $200 to $254.

Other provisions of the House bill offer benefits for dependents of disabled workers drawing social security benefits; permit benefits under workman's compensation and similar programs to be received without diminishing the social security payments; pay disability benefits for as much as 12 months before the time application was made; permit retired persons earning over $1,200 per year to receive benefits in any month in which they earn $100 or less instead of $80 or less as now provided; and provide benefits for dependent parents of a deceased worker, even though the worker's widow or child is also getting benefits.

That is the side of the proposal that appeals to congressmen in an election year.

There are about 12,000,000 beneficiaries under social security and of course millions of others who are looking forward to retirement under the program in the future.

On the other hand, there are about 60,000,000 wage earners and employers who are paying Social Security taxes now and on them Congress will be obliged to lay an additional levy to pay for the new benefits. It is proposed in the House bill to boost the social security levy on wage earners and employers from 2 1/4 per cent on the first $4,200 earned to 2 1/2 per cent on the first $4,800 of the worker's wages, beginning Jan. 1, 1959. The rate would rise another 1/2 per cent on Jan. 1, 1960, and there would be successive increases of 1/2 per cent each three years after that until the maximum of 4 1/2 per cent would be reached Jan. 1, 1969. The increases are substantial for wage earners, employers and self-employed persons. An employed person earning $4,800 per year or more would get an increase from $94.50 this year to $120 next year. Employers would get the same boost for each employee, and self-employed persons making $4,800 or over will see their tax jump from $141.75 to $180.

But unpleasant as the increase in taxes may be, Congress is evidently convinced that social security is now a permanent part of our economy and must be kept abreast of the needs of retired persons. There should be no complaint about the increased taxes from those who favor the increased benefits for more income is necessary to keep the plan solvent. There could be no greater folly than to increase the benefits without a corresponding increase in the tax to support the plan.

Iraq Recognized

Our recognition of the revolutionary government of Iraq should come as a surprise to no one. It was apparent after the first few days that we would do exactly that unless Iraq actually attacked Jordan. But the United States foreign policy regarding such official recognition is even further confused.

Far back in the days of the Monroe Doctrine, our government recognized de facto regimes on the grounds that it was the business of each country to determine in its own way its leadership and that we couldn't run the world anyway. England has quite consistently followed this policy also although its behind-the-scenes diplomatic dealings pulled quite a few strings. But the United States, at least since Theodore Roosevelt, never learned to play this style of poker. We couldn't bluff and we felt too strongly the impacts of other governments to keep entirely out of the picture.

Our government haughtily refused to recognize the Bolshevik butchers for more than a decade although we dealt officially with bums like Mussolini, Franco and Hitler and assorted Latin American dictators of varying degrees of brutality. Then, since World War II we have snubbed the government of Red China although it is obviously in control in that nation and our need to negotiate was revealed in the discussions running more than two years about Americans held in Chinese prisons. We have also refused to acknowledge the government of East Germany because of the friendship of West Germany but it is hardly less of a puppet regime than those in Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary or Rumania.

First hand reports from Iraq, sent from neighboring countries to escape censorship, indicate that the revolution was the work of a small group heavily backed by Egypt's Nasser and with moral persuasion at least of the Kremlin. Apparently our troops in Lebanon scared this group enough so that it gave lip service to the West, vague assurances that the flow of oil would continue, and that commitments to the Baghdad Pact would be carried out. But observers think this is just talk. As soon as Iraqi leaders feel sure that our troops will not invade they will even more enthusiastically embrace Gamal Nasser including arrangements for blackmail concerning oil. And, to the neutralist nations of the world or even to the casual observer, they have the right of running their own country on their side.

Every unfortunate occurrence in the world cannot be blamed upon the United States as D. H. Brogan so tellingly pointed out in The Myth of American Omnipotence some years ago. We tried to help Nasser lead his nation safely from the chains of colonialism. When he screeched for more and we turned off the faucet, he blew his stack and looked eastward. We cannot blame his confidence of keeping clear of Soviet entanglements entirely upon the failures of our Information Agency. It may very well be, in fact, that Russia has no intention of really taking over in the Middle East for the present. Rendering that area "neutral" is a big enough triumph for Khrushchev.

If the American people had a better idea of what "recognition" of regimes such as Iraq's is supposed to mean, they would be more able to evaluate such actions. Somehow our government seems to be saying that the rough masters of Red China and East Germany are beyond the pale, but Baghdad's bloody murders are to be admitted to the club.

Safety Work Saves Dollars

The Wisconsin Safety Council is trying to interest businessmen in accident prevention on a dollar and cents basis. There always has been a selfish motive in safety campaigns although in the past the emphasis has been upon the elimination of human suffering which often follows accidents.

The human appeal has proved a powerful one and great advances in safety have been made under it. However, when it comes to raising funds for this work, as the Council is doing, the money appeal can be very useful. When a businessman is told that the average cost to business and industry for a traffic accident involving an employee is $560, he can see some value in extending his safety program outside of his own plant.

There is no suggestion that businessmen are any less interested in the humanitarian benefits of safety than any others. They have proved their interest in the 35 years they have supported the Wisconsin Safety Council. The human considerations will always be important, but that should not prevent consideration of other factors.

The Council was told that the Wisconsin record for 1957 showed 122 deaths and 27,425 industrial accidents which cost $100 million. During the same year there were 919 deaths and 26,000 injuries in traffic accidents for a cost of $116 million. Accidents in the homes took 528 lives and caused injury to 79,200 persons for a loss of $24 million.

Clyde F. Schluter, Wausau, accident prevention manager for the Employers Mutuals, estimates that of the $116 million loss in traffic accidents, business and industry paid directly $45 million. He thinks that business and industry by stepping up present techniques in accident prevention could save $23 million. That should represent a good business proposition from an organization that is seeking $65,000 for 1950 and $80,000 for 1960.

There can be no criticism of the dollars and cents appeal for as Robert Olen, Clintonville, executive of the Four Wheel Drive Auto Co., and chairman of the Council trustees said, "The selfish look at safety really will turn out to be the Good Samaritan look at the same time, for if we can show to others that a hard-headed look at safety will pay off in longer life and less loss of profit, then we will be showing the way to a better, happier life for others as well."

About 'Children's Matinees' and Sensational Pre-Views of Pictures

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Here I go again — with the usual "beef." I s'pose by now everyone has pretty much their fill of censorship and all — or else they've become immune to certain immoral things — or perhaps are just not concerned.

Talk about youth centers — well, it seems our theaters have been pretty popular "youth centers" for quite some time now — including the very young which all leads to the double billing, obviously for children, over the weekend.

Sunday afternoon I took our eldest son on one of his very rare trips to the movies, since he's too young to go alone yet and the movie seemed certainly of his calibre — a children's matinee. "All's Well" as the little man sang in the cartoon — until — what to my wondering eyes (and a great many others) should appear but some downright immoral scenes from another movie playing at a local theater this weekend.

Why, may I ask you, should such things be allowed to be viewed by our very, very young and impressionable?

Apparently beating a woman, tearing the dress off her back, then making mad love, while the remaining rags fall in a crumpled heap beneath her bare legs has no impression on adults, but you should have heard the shocked "Ohs" and just plain shocked gasps of air the youngsters gave out.

You may think I'm overdoing it — but if it's for their young eyes and minds it must be printable.

It just doesn't make sense to talk about doing good things for our young people and then turn around and feed them large doses of exactly what we're trying to prevent them from.

I s'pose I'm giving some free publicity here — well, people, you just take it from there. Maybe someone will wake up — somewhere, somehow.

Bandy's Got His Neck Out But in Proper Direction

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I still say three cheers for Bob Bandy. Who needs a community center? Not the teens; they need a "Youth Center." How long would it take before the adults would take over a community center; and the youngsters would be shoved out? The adults have their clubs, lodges, golf, bowling and social affairs. Besides it's the teens who need supervision not grownups. The teens need a place to spend all their free time instead of walking the streets or throwing beer parties.

The "Y" is a wonderful place. Is it big enough? There are a lot of people who can't afford membership cards for their children. We need a place where every youth can go; not just enrolled members and their guests. We are sure the "Y" has qualified experienced trained professionals to work with the young people and have chaperons. What's to stop a new youth center from having them also? What's wrong with a new youth center? A town this size can stand to have a couple of them. We need more than one school, one church, one store, one gas station; even though there is the "Y" we still need a new youth center.

A place like Rainbow Gardens, would be nice. I believe the army uses it. It

Lawrence Firemen Elect Officers

79 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Aug. 9, 1879.

The following were elected officers of the Lawrence Engine Company No. 1 Thursday evening:

Joseph Burke, foreman; W. F. Ketchum, assistant foreman; A. J. Kreiss, secretary; and Ed. Finnegan, treasurer.

About 12 o'clock Friday, Marshal Golden, assisted by Fred Hoefer and the marshal of Green Bay, arrested a man out on Second avenue, who was wanted at the Bay for being careless in the use of a pistol, leaving a ball in a man's arm during a street misunderstanding.

Thursday, Aug. 3, 1933

Appleton retailers that morning voted to put the National Recovery Administration codes affecting them into action Monday morning and at the same time adopted a code of store hours which was to entirely eliminate Saturday night openings.

W. E. Smith, representing Appleton barbers, was among a delegation of barbers from all parts of the state which called upon Gov. Schmedeman that day to demand enforcement of the state licensing law. Smith was president of the Wisconsin Federation of Journeymen Barbers.

A travel talk by Dr. H. F. Beglinger featured a meeting of the Neenah Kiwanis club at the Poinsetta Tea room at Gillingham's Corners.

First place winners in the weekly bridge tournament sponsored by the Knights of Columbus at the Catholic club were John Schneider and H. J. Weller, north and south, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Geenen, in the east-west division.

James Lutz edged out his older brother Ralph by the narrowest margin in diving competition for Erb park boys that morning at the municipal swimming pool. Jim was awarded first place; Ralph, second; and Jack King, third.

Mrs. Sanley Staidl, Appleton, president of the ninth district of the state American Legion, auxiliary appointed Mrs. Fred Gehrk, Appleton, as her district secretary.

David Kinsman, Gary Looker, Ethan Welch, Wilbur Goltz, Lyle Sherburne and William Goltz, Jr., were spending that week at the Twin Lakes Boy Scout camp.

Jeanette Peterson defeated Janet Burr, 6-1, in the finals of the Neenah singles tennis tournament for girls 12 and under.

The new barn, which was to house cattle on exhibit at the Outagamie county fair, was to be teeming with activity Aug. 12, 13, 14 and 15, the fair dates. The barn was 112 feet long and 36 feet wide.

Democrats Buffeted by Sales Tax Pressures

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—Signs of distress among local party units and among some of the candidates on the firing line suggest strongly that the Democratic party won't be able to maintain its equivocal position on state tax policy during the 1958 state election campaign.

Wyngaard

There are those Democrats who are annoyed because the public media have suggested that the party platform as drafted at the LaCrosse convention some weeks ago is not clear and positive on tax policy — and especially on the issue of sales taxation which Democrats have exploited against the Republicans in several recent campaigns.

Yet the test is simple and obvious. The Democrats could have said they oppose a sales tax, under any circumstances. They did not do so, and the qualifying statements of some of their leaders after the convention didn't clear up the situation much.

PRESSURE

The pressure for an unequivocal position is growing. The Outagamie county Democratic organization the other day adopted an exploit statement, and urged it upon the Democratic statutory platform convention that will be held in Madison after the primary elections in September.

Even more suggestive is the eager speech-making of some of the candidates, and notably John W. Reynolds of Green Bay, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for attorney general who appears to be stumping as energetically as anybody on the Democratic side.

Mr. Reynolds complains that there has been distortion of the Democratic position on the sales tax, by what he calls "the old Guard GOP."

But he also puts out press releases demanding that other candidates "pledge a statutory convention plank unequivocally opposing any sales tax." His anxiety would seem to hint that the voluntary organization's position on the matter lacks some finality.

The Reynolds position is not necessarily conclusive. In the first place, Reynolds could be expanded and it's away from residential and business areas. They could come and go and make all the noise they like without having complaints.

Some people think Bandy is stretching his neck; I don't recall if they said up or down; at least he's stretching it in the right direction. He also has received lots of response; and not all from the big wigs. Let's all of us common, average people with children get in there and help build a youth center for our children. They're little today, but teenagers tomorrow. When tomorrow comes, I want a place for my youngsters to go and have fun and I'm sure you do too. Let's all call Bob, or write him, a card and bring him down. At least call him and thank him for thinking of our children; he doesn't have any of his own. But still he's up on the pole trying to get our children, yours and mine, a youth center. Think of it.

Inflation Worries Average Consumer

Higher Meat Prices, Big Bills Make Term More Than Theory

BY SAM DAWSON

New York—Ask the housewife and she'll tell you more inflation is already here.

She isn't talking about what she doesn't buy—the higher priced ton of steel or pound of copper. She's talking about what the family pays out—the higher prices for meat, the increased cost of her husband's getting to work, the bigger bills for keeping the children healthy, the latest rent boost.

Ask the businessman and he'll tell you more inflation is a real threat. He's talking about the increases in the price of metals and other basic materials, the higher wage scales, the greater transportation costs—all pushing him toward raising his prices to you.

Ask the economist and he'll tell you more inflation isn't a sure thing, yet but a toss-up.

He concedes the threat from the increase in the money supply which seems sure as the government borrows more and more from the commercial banks. But he also notes that while there's likely to be too much money around, there aren't too few goods for it to chase—the capacity to make more goods is already in place waiting for demand to call it into production.

Inflation is no economic theory for the consumer. It hits him where he lives. For him it simply means that the cost of living goes up.

If more inflation is really coming for sure, your present income won't buy as much. If inflation is big enough, your income won't buy what you need, let alone what you'd like to have if you could.

If you're lucky enough to get your income boosted along with the cost of living, you're likely to end up in the same old rut anyway—just keeping even with what in time can become a losing game.

A New Threat

For the consumer a new threat of inflation comes on top of what looks bad enough

Is the stock market right about more inflation being a sure thing? How much more? What can be done about it? In the following article, first in a series of three, Sam Dawson, AP business news analyst, discusses the impact on the consumer.

right now. By official figures what one dollar would buy 10 years ago and $1.20 would buy last year, it takes $1.24 to buy now. If you talk about what a buck would buy in 1939 you have to talk now about what $2 will buy.

Food prices average eight per cent higher than last year. The agriculture department says 60 per cent of the increase is due to farmers' getting higher prices and 40 per cent to marketing concerns' getting more. Meat prices seem high in the store. Well, live hogs are bringing 11 per cent more now than last summer; beef on the hoof 22 per cent more.

But food prices are moved up or down as much by weather and marketing problems as by pure monetary inflation. It's in other fields that the consumer may be hurt next.

The recession didn't bring the general drop in prices that many expected, so any new

Average Consumer

The average consumer spends 14 per cent of his income on durable goods. Their average price reached a record high in November 1967, at 110.9 per cent of the 1947-49 average, and it slipped back only to 109.6 per cent in June—before the rise in metal prices which bring the new threat.

Soft goods prices reached a peak last November at 117.4 per cent of the 1947-49 average and slipped only to 116.5 per cent by this June.

Food prices are today's villain. These seem likely to ease in the months ahead. But standing in the wings are threatening rises in other prices now—in durables, and in the cost of the services you've come to demand.

And if monetary inflation really takes hold, prices could rise all along the line.

Wausau Firm Awarded City Risk Policy

Annual Premium Of $4,043 Voted By Common Council

Employers' Mutual of Wausau was given a city contract for liability insurance Wednesday by the common council.

The company was selected by the board of public works Tuesday and will receive an annual premium of $4,043.52, the low bid among four submitted.

Ald. Mrs. Dorothy Stillings questioned the award in light of a dwindling contingent fund.

The fund contains $14,383.90 and it is known Relief Director Frank Hammond will seek an additional $20,000 plus for his department, probably next week.

One Object State of the fund was advanced as a factor in the Tuesday board meeting when it was explained that only $2,000 is budgeted for the insurance. The rest will have to come from the contingent fund.

Board members agreed Tuesday to ask Employers' to hold its bid firm to become effective Jan. 1, but the request was not made to the council and aldermen Wednesday voted the award to become effective immediately.

Employers' was selected over the objections of one board member Tuesday. He said the premium price is too high considering past claims the city had to pay.

City Atty. Don L. Jury told the objecting board member the insurance would protect the city in cases like the Wallace and Crowe claims, which stemmed from two boys drinking raw sewage in a city ravine, and from the Reinke claim, result of a drowning in Erb park swimming pool.

Will Be First An award of $8,023.10 was made by the circuit court in the death of 7-year-old Jerry Wallace and sickness of Patrick Crowe, Jerry's companion. The Reinke claim, for $10,000, has been denied by the finance committee and probably is headed for court. It is the first time the city has held such insurance.

The insurance policy provides limits of $100,000 each person and $500,000 each occurrence of bodily injury and $10,000 each accident and $50,000 aggregate of property

Thomson Asks Formal Report On Sheriff

Green Bay — Gov. Thomson Wednesday decided to await the written transcript of hearing testimony before making a decision on petitions asking Sheriff Artley Skenandore's removal.

Thomson met in Madison with Herman Sachtjen, retired Dane county judge who conducted last month's hearing, and John Potter, Wisconsin. Skenandore was accused of accepting bribes to protect a house of prostitution and being drunk and falling asleep while on duty. The charges were levied against Skenandore by town of Scott Supv. Francis Leanna and Mrs. Mary Ann Sanderson, convicted operator of a house of ill fame in the town of Bellevue.

sin Rapids, the hearing counsel.

Sachtjen had said he was ready to give his report to Thomson but the governor said he wanted to get the report in written form before making a decision.

Sachtjen said he expected the stenographic record would be ready in about 10 days. He said findings by himself and Potter would follow three or four days later.

Skenandore was accused of accepting bribes to protect a house of prostitution and being drunk and falling asleep while on duty. The charges were levied against Skenandore by town of Scott Supv. Francis Leanna and Mrs. Mary Ann Sanderson, convicted operator of a house of ill fame in the town of Bellevue.

Round-Up of Actions

Council Refuses More Talk About N. Morrison Street Stop-Go Light

A lengthy plea by Ald. Austin Tucker failed to dissuade the Appleton city council Wednesday from denying any further changes in the timing of the N. Morrison street and E. Wisconsin avenue stop-go light.

The light last month was ordered timed to operate between 6 and 9 o'clock in the morning, 11:30 in the morning and 1 o'clock in the afternoon and 2:30 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon. The schedule was recommended by the state highway department which has jurisdiction.

Tucker and nearby merchants have fought to have the light operated throughout the day without interruption. They cite the need to protect school children crossing the intersection. "I never thought I'd see the day when a car took precedence over human life," Tucker told the council.

Tucker's resolution was recommended for denial by the public safety committee. He asked that it be returned to committee "until time proves the wisdom of the agreement with the state."

Ald. Thomas K. Schneider, safety committee chairman, assured Tucker the committee will keep an open mind about the agreement and, if experience proves the timing wrong, would order an uninterrupted schedule.

Ald. Donald Mueller, at the close of the meeting, introduced a resolution calling for a state traffic count at the corner on at least five different days immediately after school reopens in September. The resolution was referred to the safety committee.

Voting to refer Tucker's original resolution back to committee were Ald. Clarence Lautenschlaeger, Gerald Wagner, Mueller and Tucker.

Rabies Control

Ordering of an ordinance to require vaccination of dogs was sent back to the board of health for more study.

Ald. Kenneth Priebe said he'd like to have another two weeks to study the proposal.

Ald. Dorothy Stillings asserted the incidence of rabies in Outagamie county is increasing and veterinarians claim the vaccination program will improve the health of animals and protect human life.

Also held up was council endorsement of a health board recommendation that the county board be urged to institute a similar program.

Highway 41 Lights

An additional mercury vapor lamp will be added to the W. College avenue and W. Spencer street intersections with Highway 41 when the highway widening project is complete. The lights will be arranged according to a pattern recommended by the state highway department.

Sump Pump Law

Ald. Allan Sonkowsky was the only alderman to vote against the so-called sump pump law, passed for the last time.

The ordinance requires separation in all new buildings of roof leaders, surface drains, ground water drains, foundation footing drains and other clear water drains from sanitary sewer outlets.

Annexations

First publication of ordinances annexing the 38-acre Hansen-Bassett-Schaefer tract on E. Newberry street and the 20-acre Joseph H. Doerfler tract on E. Hoover avenue was ordered.

Parking Meters

Ald. Kenneth Priebe got more support against off-street parking meters than he's received in recent years.

Aldermen voted 12-to-6 to buy 17 meters from Duncan Parking Meter corporation, Chicago, and place them on the former Ada Myers land recently added to the Soldiers Square parking lot.

Voting against the meters were Ald. Clarence Lautenschlaeger, Donald Mueller, Roy Pointer, Austin Tucker, Gerald Wagner and Priebe. Ald. Harvey Priebe, Sr., and Homer Malmstrom were excused absentees.

Priebe moved for the separate vote on the issue. In the past, he's sometimes opposed the meters alone.

Speed Zones

A 35-mile-an-hour zone was ordered for W. Prospect avenue between Bartell drive and .04 of mile west of S. Perkins street.

If the county board adopts a similar resolution Tuesday, the problem of different speed zones for opposite sides of the road will be eliminated.

The county has jurisdiction because it maintains the roadway, but the recommendation of a speed limit, by the state, has to be endorsed by the city since part of the roadway is in the city.

Creation of a 55-mile-an-hour zone on the east approach of the W. College avenue viaduct also was endorsed.

Ald. Thomas K. Schneider, chairman of the public safety committee, said the state will advise of other speed zone changes on perimeter streets shortly.

Fire Truck

The new fire truck, ordered in February for delivery in mid-July, probably will be delivered within 30 to 45 days, Ald. Thomas K. Schneider, public safety committee chairman, informed inquiring Ald. Ervin J. Bogan.

Curb, Gutter Work

Director of Public Works Edwin J. Duszynski told Ald. R. P. Groh that Warren Wieseler Construction company has beveled up its curb and gutter crew and is progressing satisfactorily with the work.

Councilmen two weeks ago worried over whether Wieseler would finish this year's program because he was getting a late start.

Claim Denied

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Reinke's claim for $10,000 damages in the death of their son, George, Jr., June 28, at Erb park swimming pool, was denied.

Sewer, Water Laterals

John McHugh was awarded a contract to install sewer and water laterals on E. Coolidge avenue between S. Carpenter and S. Jackson streets, N. Appleton street between W. Pershing and W. Weiland streets, W. Weiland between N. Appleton and the west end of the street and E. McKinley street between S. Carpenter and the east end of the street for $4.50 a foot.

Utilities Repair

Ald. Austin Tucker wondered if it would be possible to require utility companies to return to places where they replaced street sections they damaged and complete the job after a period of settling.

Ald. Roy Pointer, chairman of the street committee, said the committee intends to ask the utilities to place their lines in boulevards where possible. He said the utilities have been cooperative in the past.

Downtown Sewers

The engineering department was ordered to prepare a storm sewer plan for the downtown business district. It will be forerunner to a project which also is expected to include reconstruction of College avenue in places.

Prange Work

Kuhn Enterprises and Quasius and Sons, Sheboygan, were given permission to block part of N. Appleton street and all of Midway street during days when the Wolter building will be razed and the first section of a new H. C. Prange company store erected on the site.

Rezoning Actions

The request of Robert Hoepfner for rezoning to a multiple family district of land on N. Meade street at E. Woodland avenue was denied. Neighbors and Ald. Roy Pointer opposed.

The request of Charles Casperson for rezoning of his land on E. Glendale avenue, just off N. Meade, to 2-family district was approved. Casperson sought rezoning to multiple family, but changed to 2-family. Pointer had no opposition, although he said he would not like to see two 2-family dwellings erected.

Ald. Homer Malmstrom's request for rezoning to commercial and light manufacturing district of land on E. Washington street just off N. Durkee street, was approved. It connects to property which the council rezoned earlier this year.

Plats

There were no objections to the street layout in a proposed plat of Second Addition to Palisades. The plat shows 84 lots between County Trunk P and Palisades drive in the town of Menasha.

The final John Hammer plat, showing eight lots at the northwest corner of S. Kernan avenue and E. Calumet street, was approved.

Unidentified Man Killed by Train Near Duck Creek

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Green Bay — Sheriff's officers early this afternoon still were seeking the identity of a man killed by Milwaukee Road train 60 about five miles north of Duck Creek shortly after 11:30 this morning.

The apparent suicide occurred in an isolated, wooded area, sheriff's police said.

The dead man is described as middle aged with sandy hair and slightly balding. The crew of the 113-car northbound train reported sighting the man walking on the track before the train approached a slight rise. When the engine topped the rise, crew members said, the man was seen on the tracks, with his head and feet resting on the rails.

$1,000 Bond Continued For Man in Morals Case

Martin McGlin, 48, route 1, Bear Creek, today denied a sodomy charge and bond was continued at $1,000 for trial Sept. 18.

$46 Check Theft Nets Man 60 Days In County Jail

Kenneth L. Faubel, 34, 1338 W. Prospect avenue, was sent to the Outagamie county jail for 60 days today when he admitted stealing a $46 check.

He admitted taking the check from an Appleton woman July 29 after she made it out to Universal Contractors, 326 1/2 E. College avenue, a firm for which Faubel worked prior to July 29.

To a charge of falsely endorsing the $46 check, Faubel entered no formal plea and Municipal Judge Oscar J.

Schmlege set his bond at $1,000 and plea for Tuesday.

Faubel denied that he presented himself as a representative of Universal to get $37.74 worth of gasoline from an Appleton service station July 26 and trial was set for Sept. 3.

Hortonville Man Serves 19 Days For Drunkenness

Edwin J. Frye, Hortonville, today was fined $35 and given credit for 19 days served in jail on a charge of drunkenness. Frye originally was charged with drunken driving, but the charge was amended to drunkenness by Dist. Atty. George Greich.

Frye, 38, was arrested after his car made a U-turn across Highway 47 at a town road three miles south of Black Creek June 14. He told county police he was not driving the car and told Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmlege he had paid some people to drive his car from a Black Creek tavern.

Frye tested .30 on the drunkometer.

U.S. Steel Acts To Boost Prices

Pittsburgh — United States Steel Corp., the world's biggest producer, today boosted rolled sheet and strip steel prices approximately $4.25 per ton.

U. S. Steel's announced price follow the same pattern set earlier this week by Armco Steel Corp. and other producers, although the previous effect of this increase had been reported by Armco at approximately $4.50 per ton.

A U. S. Steel spokesman said the difference in the announced average price increase resulted from variation in the types of products.

Even More Westerns on Fall Season TV Docket

BY HAL BOYLE

New York—A friend of mine had a strange experience the other night. "I watched television for two hours," he said, "and didn't see a single horse."

This may mark a historic moment in the video industry. For come the falling of leaves this autumn, such an experience may be next to impossible.

The hoofbeats of the horse opera will echo in the nation's living rooms as never before.

Nearly Two Dozen

Two years ago there were only 11 western series on the major networks, last year 16. But the season upcoming will have nearly two dozen—that is, if Hollywood doesn't run out of horses and blank cart-ridges.

Does the sight of a galloping nag now give you a kind of queasy sea-sick feeling? Well, there's only one way out. Turn off your TV set and turn on your radio. Then you won't have to watch a western program—you'll just have to listen to it.

Whether westerns are really as popular with the people as producers and sponsors seem to think is open to argument. But there is no question they have had a tremendous impact on our current culture.

Costs More Than Alaska

More money is spent in filming westerns each year than was required to buy all of Alaska in 1867.

Many of us now feel more familiar with the streets of such old western towns of Tombstone and Dodge City than we are with the streets of our own city. Many of us feel we know Wyatt Earp and the Billy the Kid better than we do our next door neighbor.

The cult of the cowboy and the gunman, like the cult of bosom-worship in America, sometimes seems to have gone beyond the boundaries of pure entertainment and to have approached the proportions of a national neurosis.

Reason for Popularity

One veteran program chief gives this as the reason behind the epidemic of westerns:

"TV is an escape medium. The best kind of escape is one in which you are shocked and threatened—but not in a way that really could happen to you."

"That's why westerns succeed. You enjoy the tense feeling of watching someone walk down a street in Dodge City in 1870 to face a gunman. But one reason you enjoy it is that, basically, you know you won't have to do it yourself."

"Modern plays about the loneliness and despair every-man must face in living may be great art, but they are too real. Sponsors don't like them because they scare you out of your house and into the nearest bar."

Like Ostrich

This estimate of the situation is probably true. Watching westerns is for many of us, like the ostrich's fabled custom of sticking its head in the sand, a way to keep from thinking about our own lives and problems.

Back of it all may be the wild hope that someday, somehow, Marshal Dillon or Wyatt Earp will get Nikita Khrushchev in their gunights and end all our worries.

Meanwhile, back at the ranch—seen any interesting new horses lately?

Forest Product Values Down

First Decline Seen In Several Years, State Foresters Say

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—Forest products values are declining.

Recent hearings held by the state conservation department on stumpage values in Wisconsin woodlands show slight declines in prices of some species and selected products.

Department foresters said it was the first decline recorded in several years. For some time the upward climb in prices had been steady. The stumpage values have also been reflected in some downward trends in prices at saw mills.

The department is concerned with economic trends because it annually reviews stumpage values to assess severance taxes on woodland harvesting under the forest crop tax law.

Values Lowered

The department has lowered stumpage values of some species, according to the testimony received at a series of recent hearings.

Other values were unchanged in the tax schedule. White pine was reduced $2 per thousand feet to a new value of $23, for the most important of the changes.

Basswood, hard maple, Norway pine, red and white oak, spruce and hemlock were cut $1.

Some cord products were also reduced slightly, but most piece products and Christmas trees were continued at the schedules in effect last year.

part of Kierdorf's union activity, or he did it on his own.

The witnesses included operators of several dry cleaning establishments that were dynamited recently.

George W. Latreille, owner of the burned cleaners, told newsmen he had been contacted several years ago by union men about the possibility of organizing his workers, but nothing came of it.

Latreille said his employees are not organized and that he has not had any trouble. He did not identify which union had sought to organize his employees.

Kierdorf refused to answer police questions for nearly 15 hours after he staggered into the hospital. Finally, his uncle, Herman Kierdorf, 68, helped police work a story out of his nephew.

The uncle, a former Teamsters official, then vowed revenge for the burning and disappearance.

ranking Nationalist and U.S. officers.

The American command on Formosa announced that Brig. Gen. Charles H. Pottemer, commander of the 315th U.S. air division, would arrive in Taipei tomorrow for a visit.

Moscow radio said the Nationalist military activity "is being carried out on instructions from Washington and has obvious aggressive aims." The Nationalist information service said the activity was caused by communist military preparations on the mainland and a buildup of red air strength in the area.

"We are on the defensive and will not start trouble," a defense ministry spokesman said.

Real Danger. Some foreigners on Formosa wondered whether the present atmosphere of crisis had been artificially generated. Nationalist officials emphatically repudiated this idea and said the dangers of the situation were real.

Nevertheless, the American authorities received no advice for evacuation of U.S. military dependents. There are several thousand in Formosa. Nor had any advice been conveyed to the various embassies and legations. Despite the growing warnings of danger, Americans and other foreigners in Formosa carried out their normal daily routine.

Veteran Legislator

Wins by Only 41 Votes

Topeka, Kan. — Rep. Wint Smith, a veteran of almost 12 years in the U. S. house, apparently has won by 41 votes the Republican nomination for a seventh term.

Complete but unofficial returns from all 561 precincts in Kansas' sixth district gave Smith 12,007 votes to 11,966 for Keith Sebelius, a Norton lawyer. The third man in the race, Joe Gunnels of Colby, got only 2,759 votes in Tuesday's primary.

Final outcome of the race awaits the official canvass and next Tuesday's counting of in-state absentee ballots.

Link Hoffa's 'Partner' To Dope Peddler, Fixer

enaed from Michigan parole board files listing Marrosso as a $700-a-month employee of the Marberry Construction company of Detroit, promoted by aides to Hoffa.

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy told the senators Marrosso was actually getting the salary from the Teamsters union and not from the company, for about two years after getting out of prison.

In Wednesday's hearing, it was developed that Marberry Construction—a real estate promotion—was principally financed by a $235,000 loan from the Michigan Teamsters welfare fund.

Contempt Citation As Marrosso kept taking the Fifth amendment, the committee ordered Kennedy to prepare a contempt citation against him.

The senators contended Marrosso couldn't incriminate himself by testifying about a crime — the convicted extortion — for which he already had served his sentence. The parole period expired last May, Kennedy said.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin (D-NC) a former judge, said no one is entitled to invoke the Fifth amendment about a crime for which he has paid the penalty. He told the witness the constitution protects such a person from being placed twice in jeopardy for the same offense.

In all, Marrosso refused to answer more than 40 questions, including whether he had gone to work this year for Louis Garavaglia, identified by the committee as a Detroit contractor who was killed this year in a helicopter crash.

Kennedy said the employment was at $600 a month early this year, and that Garavaglia is one of the men allegedly shaken down by Marrosso.

When Marrosso was dismissed from the witness chair, it was taken by Davidson, a former Detroit heavyweight boxer who said he now lives in Youngstown, Ohio.

Davidson testified the union in 1952 started paying him $75 a week for a job on which he did no work, after Hoffa's No. 1 aide, Owen J. (Bert) Brennan, became Davidson's manager.

He said his job supposedly was to check on sick benefit claims by union members but that he never made any such checks.

Davidson was the man the committee had billed in advance as a mystery witness whose name it kept secret until he went on the witness stand.

Tells of Split The former fighter said he split with Brennan in 1955 because Brennan insisted he should go through with a fight with a boxer named Coxie Hall, despite a nose injury. Hall had flattened Davidson in 1954.

Davidson said Brennan argued he might not even get hit on the nose in the fight, but Davidson said this seemed "highly impossible" to him.

He said Brennan, who owns race horses, admitted he would have withdrawn an injured horse from a race, but insisted "that's different" when it comes to boxers.

Davidson said he considered himself just as valuable as any horse.

Existence of Israel Needed, Nehru Says

New Delhi — Prime Minister Nehru said today any solution to the Israeli-Arab conflict must provide for Israel's continued existence. "I hope that . . . a peaceful settlement may be arrived at," Nehru told his monthly news conference. "Obviously that involves the continuation of Israel and the acceptance of Israel by the countries about it."

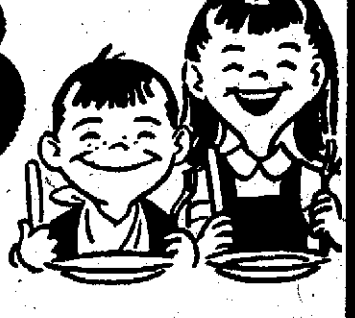

India has recognized Israel but has not exchanged diplomatic representatives with her.

"This attitude was adopted after careful consideration of several factors," Nehru said. "It is based on how we can best be of help in that area. We still think that it is the correct position."

Kaukauna — The city of Kaukauna will recognize the Thilmany Pulp and Paper company in its anniversary month of September, Mayor Joseph F. Bayorgeon has announced.

The city council adopted a resolution authorizing the formation of a committee to map plans for a special testimonial dinner and program.

Sept. 18 the firm will mark 75 years in the city and Mayor Bayorgeon declared this is a "continued story of a city, people, wood, paper and forested men, which combined together, have brought economic security to all of us and played such an all important part in our city's development."

"The city of Kaukauna realizes, recognizes and appreciates Thilmany's worth to us as our largest industrial citizen and for the strength and community spirit shown," Bayorgeon said.

In September Thilmany plans to highlight its 75th anniversary with a special program for the employees, their families and certain interested community groups, Bayorgeon said. The testimonial dinner will honor Charles R. Seaborne and will be arranged

Carriers Ask Representation In Government

Suggest Reenacting State Law About Commission Makeup

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — There may be a campaign to give the big and growing Wisconsin transportation industry more direct representation in state government regulation of transportation.

The Wisconsin Motor Carriers association has suggested reenactment of an old Wisconsin law, repealed 25 years ago, that required the 3-member public service commission to have at least one member versed in transportation problems.

The proposal was published in the association news organ, which complained that recent state administrations have not seemed very interested in transportation lines even though about 50 per cent of the agency total work load comes from trucking, railroads and other public and private carriers.

Regulates Rates The commission regulates and supervises the rates and practices of carriers and public service companies. Any change in the qualifications required of members would require an enactment of the legislature.

Said the association: "With regulation of transportation the amounts involved are not so large (as telephone and utility rates) but there is the ever occurring regulation which affects many small businessmen in the trucking industry. The sum total of this regulation of small businessmen is of great impact to our economy."

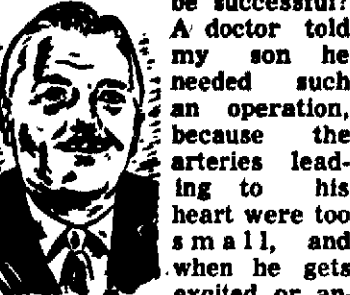

The last transportation industry representative who served on the commission was the late A. R. McDonald, Kaukauna, a former railroad employee.

Virginia Youngsters Richmond, Va. — Richmond School Supt. H. I. Willett, aware of soft courses taught in some schools, tells this: Two third graders on the playground watched two jet fighters streaking across the sky. "If that pilot would cut in his after-burner he could make mach 2," said one. "Well," said the other as

To Your Good Health Chances for Success Good In Heart Artery Operations

By Joseph G. Molner, M. D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would an operation to enlarge the arteries leading to the heart be successful?"

A doctor told my son he needed such an operation, because the arteries leading to his heart were too small, and when he gets excited or angry the blood pumps too fast. I would have to sign for him to have the operation and I have put it off because if something went wrong I would never get over it.—Mrs. V. L."

The situation, as you describe it, could be of quite a variety of things—a place where an artery or a valve in or at the end of an artery is too small in one of a number of parts of the heart. Thus I cannot, of course, guess whether this involves the aorta (main artery), or the pulmonary artery connecting with the lung.

But what is important is that heart operations of this type have become vastly more numerous in approximately the last 10 years. The "blue baby" operations came just a few years earlier, and opened the way for much of the heart surgery that has followed.

Ten years ago, even in the big hospitals, only a handful of such cases were being operated—a few dozen a year. Today, in several hospitals in a single city you will see hundreds of such cases a year, often one or two every day. Ten years ago, most of these operations were attempted on patients who were doomed to certain death quickly unless surgery was attempted at once. Many succumbed—but would have succumbed anyway. But many survived, and today are living testimony that lives can be saved that way.

As the years have passed, the percentage of successful operations has gone up and up. No longer do we operate only on patients who are at death's door. We operate on cases in which the patients are still fairly strong, but sure to go steadily downhill unless their hearts are repaired. Operating on stronger patients and operating earlier in itself means the chance of success is several times as good.

There is always some risk, as in any operation, even having tonsils out or a tooth pulled. There is also risk in going for an automobile ride, or crossing a street.

Surgeons don't operate unless they see a clearly sound prospect of success. In this case, if you don't permit the operation, you know what will happen. It will be certain disaster within a relatively short time. So to me there is no question as to what to do: a 90 per cent chance of giving your son a long, vigorous life is far better than accepting the 100 per cent positive knowledge that he will grow steadily weaker if you do not operate.

Yes, give your approval, and pray that he will be one of the great majority who come through safely and are out of bed and walking a week or so after the operation. I've seen such patients out of bed as soon as two days after the operation!

Hypnosis in Reducing "Dear Dr. Molner: Is hypnosis of any value in reducing when the will power is weak?"—Mrs. M. A."

I'm willing to call a spade a spade. My answer is no. Nor do I think any physician would expose you to the risks, because long-term hypnosis involves serious risks. Even on a short-term basis, it involves risks unless the hypnotist understands his business thoroughly.

Premature Baby "Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible for a one pound, three-fourths ounce premature boy baby to grow and be like other children?"—Mrs. W. T."

Possible, yes. However the chances of survival are slight. But if the baby survives, his chances of being normal are very good.

Grand Chute Streets Get New Names

Town Also Will Introduce House Number System

Several Grand Chute street names were changed at a special town board meeting Wednesday night, Chairman Arthur Lecker reported today.

Town officials hope the new names will eliminate confusion in mail delivery, provide continuity with streets which run through the town from Appleton and aid firemen in answering calls.

A complete house numbering system also will be introduced, Lecker said.

Acting Postmaster Francis Sunnicht told the board similarity of some street names in Grand Chute with other streets in Appleton sometimes results in dispatch of mail to the wrong carrier. He indicated he would seek cooperation from the towns of Menasha and Harrison to straighten out similar street name confusion.

The Grand Chute street changes will be completed by Oct. 15, Lecker said.

The following changes were approved:

David, Ruwoldt, Greenland and Schroeder streets to N. Story street.

Carleton street to Haskell street.

S. Town Line road to W. Prospect avenue.

Mossholder and Thyssen roads to Evergreen drive.

N. Town Line road to Broadway drive.

W. Town Line road to Mayflower drive.

Van Camp road, County Trunk JJ within the town and Underhill road to Underhill drive.

Second avenue to Florida avenue.

Badger School road, Heiman and Robinson streets to Badger School drive.

The board will study a suggestion by Sunnicht that Third avenue be renamed because of confusion with Third street in Appleton.

Study Asked of Cars Parking in 1 Stall All Day

A continuing study, by the Appleton Downtown Retail association of those cars use downtown parking stalls for long periods was urged Tuesday.

J. R. Whitman, chairman of the chamber of commerce parking committee, spotted 11 cars on July 28 which used the same parking stall all morning and discovered upon investigation they belonged to store managers, professional people and repairmen.

If a daily investigation is made and cooperation of the long parkers sought, the parking shortage on major business streets might be alleviated somewhat, Whitman said.

Other Action

In other action, the association:

Authorized a delegation to find out from the city council what is being done about converting the W. Packard street dump area north of the Chicago and North Western Railway company tracks to a parking lot.

Learned that W. T. Bernhard was named chairman of a steering committee which will seek new ideas to incorporate in the association's program. On the committee are Arthur H. Benson, Earl Miller and Robert Gross.

A discussion of whether to continue July clearance days failed to settle the question.

Around Home

All sorts of gremlins were at work when the Post-Crescent began using its 6-unit Goss Headliner press Monday. Some of them stole the Neenah-Menasha section and inserted four blank pages in the paper that went to Editor Victor I. Minahan, Jr., who is vacationing at Egg Harbor.

South Side Needs Parks, Council Told

Two Aldermen Request Purchase Of Baerenwald Land

Aldermen Robert Stumpf and Harold Hannemann Wednesday called upon the city council for more parks on the south side.

They accompanied a joint resolution with an endorsement of land offered the city earlier as an outdoor swimming pool site.

"There is need for additional parks on the south side," they said, "because this area has about one-fifth of the city's population, and the school board survey showed the south side has been the fastest growing section of the city."

The south side, they pointed out, is served now only by Telulah park and a small plot near Memorial drive bridge.

Baerenwald Offer

Action to obtain more parks should be taken now, they said, while land can be purchased at favorable prices.

Specifically, they called for the park board and board of public works to buy the Oscar Baerenwald property.

Baerenwald, 519 E. Taft avenue, owns 6 1/2 acres along E. Taft in the block between S. Jackson and S. Lawe streets.

He said he will sell the tract for $28,500, taking $1,500 down and the rest, without interest, before Feb. 1.

Baerenwald offered the land last spring as an outdoor swimming pool site, but his offer was never given serious consideration because it was said to be too far south.

The park board presently is concentrating efforts to obtain park land on the far northwest corner of the city and has given several possible sites to the board of public works.

Firemen, Neighbors Avert Blaze in Barn Near Charlesburg

Charlesburg — Members of two fire departments and many neighbors were removing smoldering hay and grain from the barn on the Henry Schmidt farm, 1 1/2 miles south of here, this morning.

Smoke was noticed about 8 o'clock this morning and the New Holstein fire department was called. When the firemen ran out of water, they called the Chilton fire department.

Because of the work of the firemen and neighbors, a blaze was prevented and it is unlikely any structural damage will result. Recently threshed grain was in the granary.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Stanley Biesel, Neenah; three sons, Norman, Harold and Edward, all of Appleton; one brother, Charles, Appleton; one sister, Mrs. Charles Kahler, Appleton; four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

While the audience lounged on the Appleton High school lawn, summer music students performed Wednesday in the calm evening air. The program, in which sixth graders, junior high school and high school pupils took part, was the culmination of the summer band program now ending its second year at the high school. Frank Comella is the director. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Peninsula Players

'Cat on Hot Tin Roof' Called Gripping, Absorbing Drama

BY WILLIAM WEAVER

Special to Post-Crescent

We were excessively happy Wednesday evening to leave behind the local heat for the blessed cool of Door county, where we witnessed the Peninsula Players' polished and electrifying production of Tennessee Williams' "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof." It was accorded unusually enthusiastic applause by a sizeable first night audience.

It proved a very gripping and very absorbing experience — and we're sure for many of the audience a very shocking one. Certainly it is a birthday party that no one who sees it will ever forget. And that's what it is — a sixty-fifth birthday celebration for Big Daddy Pollitt.

The uncomfortable and insecure guests include Big Mama; the Pollitt's younger son, Brick, an alcoholic former football star; his childless wife, Margaret, one of the major avatars of the "cat" in the title; the avaricious elder son, Gooper; his fertile and equally avaricious wife, Mae; and their five children, aptly styled by one of the characters as "no-neck monsters."

"Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" is not a great play, but it is unquestionably the work of one of the most skillful and perceptive writers of the modern stage. Williams' raw material here and the mode in which he examines it almost surely add up to melodrama. In his hands, however, it all comes close to something very like tragedy. It alternates deftly between the grimace that betrays nervous but genuine laughter and the unblinking hypnotic stare of a dangerous snake.

Jeanne Bolan, as Margaret Pollitt, uttered easily nine-tenths of the words in the first act, and yet she did not make of it a mere tour de force. She created the frustrated and complicated wife with sensitivity and variety and real insight. Maurice Ottinger, as her tortured and alcoholic husband, was not a whit less impressive. If the first act was Miss Bolan's, the second was clearly his — and Big Daddy's.

Big Daddy is played with alarming frugality and clarity by the very versatile William Munchow. All things considered, we would say this is his best performance thus far.

Jean Leslie, as his wife, turned in her best job, so far as well, and it was good indeed. In turn, Maggy Magerstadt and Thom Koutsoukas, as the venal Mae and Gooper Pollitt, make one believe they have been scheming and perpetrating skulduggery since the day they were born.

Kert Lundell's setting for this orgy of naked minds struck just the right balance between bare reality and suggestion. Director Harvey Korman is to be highly commended.

"Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" will run through Sunday.

Sheriff's Trip West Criticized

Brown County Board Complains That Wife Went Along to Coast

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Green Bay — While disposition of formal charges of misconduct against him still is pending before the governor in one case the name of Brown County Sheriff Arley Skenandore was catapulted into a new controversy Wednesday night at a meeting of the county board's protection committee.

Committee members criticized Skenandore for taking his wife and the wife of County Officer Wendy Magnuson with him and Magnuson on an 11-day trip in a county squad car to pick up a prisoner on the west coast.

Skenandore still on the trip to Seattle, Wash., was not available for comment. The group departed from Green Bay Friday night and is not expected back until next Monday or Tuesday, according to the sheriff's office.

The disclosure Wednesday night prompted the committee to propose rules for restrictions on such trips in the future. No action was taken on the rules pending further study.

Gets Opinion

One proposal is that no unauthorized person be transported in a county squad car unless on official business. Another is that county squad cars cannot be taken out of the state even on official business, with the possible exception of adjoining states.

The committee received an opinion from the county corporation counsel that it can

Council Turns Down Youth Center Study

Better to Await Capital Outlay Plan, Two Say

The city council Wednesday turned down a proposal by Ald. Austin Tucker for a 2-month study of the need for a youth center.

Ald. Mrs. Dorothy Stillings and Ald. Ervin J. Bogan said it would be better to await drafting of a Tucker capital improvements program.

The capital outlay plan, to be formulated by the board of public works, is expected to tell the council what and when major projects are needed and how to arrange financing.

Voting for a youth center study now were Aldermen Clarence Lauteenschlager, Kenneth Priebe, Thomas K. Schneider, Allan Sonkowsky, Gerald Wagner and Tucker.

Against

Voting against were Aldermen Charles Captain, William F. Ertl, R. P. Groh, Harold Hannemann, Donald Mueller, Douglas Ogilvie, Roy Pointer, Al H. Stoegbauer, Robert Stumpf, Alvin Tews, Bogan and Mrs. Stillings.

Aldermen Harvey Priebe, Sr., and Homer Malmstrom were excused absentees.

Tucker's resolution read: "We do hereby, officially and publicly, recognize the present need for additional youth recreational facilities in the city. . . . Therefore, we respectfully request the mayor to appoint a committee to investigate and evaluate present public sentiment for the creation of, and the future need for, the construction of a youth center. A 2-month study is recommended, after which time a full report, in writing, be submitted to the city council for consideration of further action."

Mrs. Stillings expressed fear there would not be money enough in the future, citing the board of education's report of $8 million in school needs over the next 10 years.

Bogan reminded the council he has always been a champion of such curbs on sheriff travel because the committee holds the purse strings of the sheriff's office for travel expenses and also that it can control use of county squad cars as county property.

Several committee members stated they had received complaints about the wives of the two law officers accompanying them on a trip in a county squad car.

The committee members made it plain their criticism of the impropriety of the west coast trip was directed only at Skenandore and not at Magnuson.

Reformatory Building to Be Remodeled

Will Provide Bed Space for 60 Inmates

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Green Bay — Officials of the Wisconsin state reformatory, received approval Wednesday for preparation of a new dormitory at the institution because of record breaking population.

Reformatory Supt. M. A. Scaff received permission from state Welfare Director Wilbur Schmidt, Madison, to proceed with plans to remodel a portion of the reformatory trades building into a temporary dormitory housing 60 inmates.

The new quarters will accommodate inmates now sleeping in corridors of the main building.

The remodeling will be done by inmate labor and will cost approximately $10,000 to $12,000.

Work is expected to begin after cost quotations are received from local suppliers and a requisition for funds is approved by the welfare department.

The reformatory population has continued rising since March, when a quarter century population record was broken. The population as of today is 862, one less than the all-time record established Tuesday. The record broken in March was 808, established in 1932.

Homme Home for Boys To Mark 77th Birthday

BY MRS. HELEN ADAMS

Wittenberg — Sunday will mark the 77th anniversary festival of the Homme Home for Boys. The program will include dedication of the new activities building recently completed.

Back in the 1870s a young minister, the Rev. E. J. Homme, serving a parish at Winchester, had a dream of helping needy children and old people. Because of the rugged living conditions in the wilderness people grew old before their time and many children were left orphans.

The Rev. Mr. Homme walked the circuit, preaching in different settlements always hoping he could help the children. In 1879 when he heard the railroad was being extended from New London to Wausau he started purchasing land along the Embarras River in Shawano county. He, with his brother-in-law, Jonas Swenbott, who operated the first store, chose the site for the institutions at the same time the railroad company was selecting sites for their station and charcoal kilns. Carbonero was the name given the site until the Rev. Mr. Homme requested the railroad to change the name to Wittenberg.

Edited Magazine
Without the sanction of the Norwegian Lutheran synod the Rev. Mr. Homme started work on the homes as a private enterprise. In 1881 he had built a home for his family and had taken seven children to be cared for. He solicited funds through subscriptions for a Norwegian magazine, "For Gammel Og Ung," which he edited. The first year of publication 1,100 subscriptions were sold.

Work was going forward on new buildings and children and aged people were being cared for. In 1890 a church (the present First Lutheran church) was built.

The boys were taught printing and farm work and the girls sewing and housework. A school room was added and the children attended classes through the eighth grade. The last commencement was in 1940 and since then the children have been transported to the public school in Wittenberg.

The Rev. Mr. Homme died in 1903 at the age of 59. He left the home to the United Norwegian Lutheran church. The church took possession of the property in 1904. Through the years it has been operated according to the will. The children remained at the home until they were 18. The average number of residents was 100.

In 1920 the children and the elderly people were separated, the aged being moved to the old Wittenberg Academy building in the village.

Many changes took place during the years. There were less orphaned children and more children entering the home from broken homes. Social problems arose and the Lutheran Welfare Society of Wisconsin helped with placement service. In 1930 the name was changed from Homme's Orphans' Home to Homme Children's Home.

Started Cottages
At the same time the need was felt for housing the children in smaller groups and plans were started for the cottage type housing. The present building with room for 20 teenage boys and supervisory personnel was completed in 1952. At the same time a cottage was built at Eau Claire for teenage girls. The youths are placed through the Lutheran Welfare Society and the name was changed to Homme Home for Boys in 1952.

The present manager of the home is Joseph Haanstad who has served in this capacity since 1954. Today the property consists of 446 acres of good farm land with a fine dairy herd. In 1952 a gift of 480 acres of land near Exeland was received. This has been developed for outdoor living and is known as Wilderness camp.

The Homme Home for Boys north of Wittenberg will observe its 77th anniversary with a celebration Sunday that will be highlighted by the dedication of a new recreation building, above. The boys live in the modern building, lower, in a sylvan setting. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Each year the annual festival brings many former residents back to the home. This year they will see the dedication of the new activities building. The building is equipped for all sports, wood-working shop and radio repair shop.

Need Teachers

Nashville, Tenn. — The percentage of Baptists on the faculties of Baptist colleges will be down to about 50 per cent in the next 15 to 20 years unless more young Baptists enter the teaching profession, says Dr. R. Orrin Cornett, head of the denomination's education commission.

Weekend Event

Thousands of Flowers to be Shown in Gladiolus Show

Several thousand gladiolus will be on display Saturday and Sunday at the Masonic temple when the Fox River Valley Gladiolus society holds its third annual flower show. Although a ny gladiolus grower is eligible to compete, it is expected most flowers will be brought in by members of participating societies in Madison, Milwaukee, Manitowoc, Marinette, Oconto, Wausau and the Fox Cities.

Show hours, when the displays are open to the public, are from 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon until 9 o'clock Saturday night and from 9 o'clock Sunday morning until 5:30 Sunday evening.

The competitive show will feature single spikes, three spikes, baskets, 15 classifications of arrangements and corsages. An innovation this year will be demonstrations in flower arranging and corsage making. These will take place from 2:30 to 4:30 each afternoon.

The growing season has been reported good this year and show officials said they expect many new blooms to be shown for the first time in blue, green and brown varieties.

Royal Governor in Iraq Palace Home; Escapes Rebel Mobs

London — The English governor of King Faisal's cousin has returned safely to Britain after hiding in Baghdad from the rebels who killed of the monarch and members of his household.

The foreign office said today Mrs. Florence Haseldine, 60, had flown home. At one time there were fears for the woman, who went to Bag-

Dulles Sums Up Background of World Crisis

Says Threat of War Shouldn't Cause Free Nations to Weaken

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Sometimes in a few sentences in a public utterance there is epitomized the whole background of a crisis in the world. Secretary of State Dulles, speaking in Brazil this week, said:

"The international situation is critical. Atheistic, materialistic, and aggressive forces that would dominate all the world, talk boldly; they suggest that efforts to halt them will mean nuclear war."

"We do not in fact believe they want war or would invoke war. No sane people want war. War would be for all an inexpressible disaster."

"The question is whether their threats will cause us to weaken and give in and thus sacrifice the genuine independence of nation after nation. That is not the path to peace. It is the road to war."

The foregoing is an eloquent answer to those critics here and abroad who frivolously exclaim that "America has no foreign policy."

It is a courageous answer to those who keep on giving the impression that the American people are terrorized and that there is only one thing to do—to make concession after concession to the Soviets and the red Chinese as well as to their stooges in the middle east.

Many a so-called "plan" has been proposed by panicky-minded persons who seem to feel that the alternative to war is "just plain surrender. They cloak their proposals in fancy phrases—indeed, they bring out the old clichés about "neutralization" of certain regions and talk glibly about "bold and imaginative ideas" for "revising American policy." But paths of appeasement lead only to the same goal—defeatism.

Ways to Peace

For there are only two ways to try to maintain peace in the world. One of them involves military force, and this not always, but sometimes, means war. The other involves moral force, and this—when backed by a unified country and a willingness to use military force if every other effort fails—could succeed in keeping peace.

Some of the critics have derisively called this "brinkmanship." They use the term because Secretary Dulles once endeavored to express the need for courage in foreign policy and said that sometimes it is necessary to go to the "brink of war" in order to avoid war. He did not mean that he would merely resort to bluff. What he did mean is that, while it is imperative to exhaust every means of making a settlement, no nation which believes in the justness of its cause can avoid Moral force means public discussion, good propaganda, debate in the forum of the United Nations general assembly or in the press of the world or over the air waves. The theory is that peoples will control the hand of a government that threatens war. This is logical up to the point where censorship and suppression of ideas by a totalitarian government build an insurmountable barrier to communication between peoples.

Just now America has the most convincing case a nation ever had in the international arena. The United States stands for maintenance of the territorial integrity and political independence of all nations and is willing to supply military might, if necessary, to uphold that principle. For this is the key to peace in the Middle East and in every other area. To condone aggression, direct or indirect, is eventually to invite a world war.

U.S. Record

America's record is untarnished. Though engaged victoriously in two world wars to defend its interests, it has not annexed a single foot of territory. When it has landed Marines anywhere, the reason always has been to protect the lives and property of its own citizens. The United States sent military forces to the Middle East last month to accomplish two purposes—to protect American lives there and to help preserve the political independence of a small nation, thus demonstrating to the communists and their allies that the people and government of this country are not pacifistic but ready to fight in the future as in the past for a just cause.

The fact that America itself may be in military danger unless such a determined stand is taken now is not perhaps generally appreciated. It wasn't widely understood either during the 1930's when it was being said that in the battle between the democracies and fascism, the "frontiers of the United States are on the Rhine." So today the "frontiers" in the defense of America may be in the Middle East.

The United States has drawn a line in the far east beyond which it has said the communist forces must not advance. In an analogous fashion—through the Truman and Eisenhower doctrines—notification has been given that communistic infiltration of free countries in Europe and the Middle East can reach a point where, if necessary, it will be challenged by arms. The hope is that peoples everywhere will perceive the real issue and restrain any dictatorship governments from taking chances in a delicate situation that could break down the peace of the world. Durable Black Serge

Athens, Ark. —(AP)—V. P. Keener of Bell's Chapel, Ark., purchased a black serge suit in November, 1905, and was married in it on Christmas day that year.

Now, 52 years and several recessions later, he still wears the same black serge suit. It's in pretty good condition, too, says Keener.

Green Pepper Cook's Ally in Hot Weather

How to make good, solid, nourishing foods easy to take for summer-slowed appetites is a prime problem of hot weather meal planning. This is where the pungent green pepper can be the cook's potent ally—because pepper has a penchant for partnership with seafood, eggs and beef. Here are some new ideas for adding the pepper's fresh, peppery taste, pretty color and wholesome content of vitamins C, A and other nutrients to protein-rich mainstay dishes.

Stuff tangy green peppers with a mixture of diced shrimp, flavor with celery, tied to gether with bread crumbs and lightly beaten eggs and bake briefly until the pepper's piquancy permeates the stuffing. The result is a sure appetite awakener.

Eggs Italian Style, well seasoned, slightly beaten and skillet cooked with green pepper strips, have it all over the usual omelet or scrambled eggs.

Green pepper slices, abetted by onion rings and bouillon-enriched gravy, transform the humble meat ball into an epicure's delight.

Notice that all these dishes are quick—fixers, requiring very short sessions at the range.

Stuffed Green Peppers
6 large squatty green peppers
Boiling water to cover
1 teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons chopped onion

2. small eggs, lightly beaten

1 1/2 tablespoons butter
3 cups diced shrimp or flaked crabmeat
6 tablespoons finely diced celery
1 1/2 cups soft bread crumbs
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper

Designed to Tempt Heat-Slowed appetites is this flavorful main dish in which pungent green peppers are stuffed with diced shrimp.

1 1/2 tablespoons butter
3 cups diced shrimp or flaked crabmeat
6 tablespoons finely diced celery
1 1/2 cups soft bread crumbs
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper

Fresh shrimp for garnish (optional)
Fresh parsley for garnish
Wash peppers, cut off tops and scoop out seeds and cores. Parboil three minutes in boiling water to cover and one-half teaspoon salt. Drain and cool.

Place peppers close together in a close-fitting pan. Sauté onions in butter. Add seafood, celery, bread crumbs, salt, ground black pepper and eggs. Mix lightly. Spoon into green peppers. Dot each with one-half teaspoon butter.

Bake 20 minutes or until done in a preheated moderate oven. Garnish as desired with cooked whole shrimp and fresh parsley.

Peppers And Eggs
2 large green peppers
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 clove fresh garlic, split
6 eggs
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper

Fresh parsley for garnish
Wash peppers, remove seeds and cut into lengthwise strips, 1-inch wide.

Heat oil in a 9 or 10-inch skillet. Add green peppers and garlic. Sauté until tender. Remove garlic.

Beat eggs slightly. Add salt and ground black pepper. Add to peppers.

Cook until desired consistency, stirring gently. Remove from heat and serve at once as a luncheon or supper dish. Garnish with fresh parsley.

Pepper - Tomato Soup
3 cups diced green peppers
1 quart diced fresh tomatoes
1 cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 cup water
2 tablespoons butter

Blend in flour. Gradually stir in strained mixture. Add seasonings and bring to boiling point.

Produce Buys Good, Few Cheap Meat Cuts

Fruits, Vegetables Lead Economy Lists; Chickens, Turkeys Tops for Protein

Myriad good buys on Appleton produce counters will greet weekend food shoppers although the picture is not as rosy at the meat counters.

A wide variety of fruits and vegetables are attractively priced right now as both supplies and quality increase. From meat departments, however, it's the same old story—most popular cuts of beef and pork are high, while best buys are in the poultry line.

Eggs, too, are fairly high at the moment, with a dozen Grade A large tagged from 53 to 57 cents. The price rise is attributed to a seasonal fluctuation.

A glance at fruit counters shows watermelons at about 70 cents apiece are among top buys with many other fruits running close seconds.

Bargain List
Included on the bargain list are blueberries at 29 cents a pint, sugared cherries at $4.95 for a 30-pound tin, Elberta peaches at 20 cents a pound, green grapes at 20 cents a pound, Bing cherries at 19 cents a pound, red grapes at 25 cents a pound, cantaloupe at 20 cents a melon, apricots at 25 cents a pound, nectarines at 29 cents a pound and yellow, red and green plums at 29 cents a pound.

Some strawberries were seen this week but the quality seems to be on the downgrade while prices are edging upward. They're going for about 29 cents a pint. Also rather expensive but of apparently good quality are honeydew melons at 45 cents apiece.

A newcomer to fruit bins this week are green Duchesse cooking apples at 13 cents a pound. Chances are, they'll get much lower as autumn nears.

The menu planner should have no trouble with fresh vegetable dishes.

Excellent buys are green cabbage at 13 cents a head, carrots at 15 cents a bunch, green onions at 7 cents a bunch, radishes at 7 cents a bunch, cucumbers at 7 cents apiece, beets at 10 cents a bunch, leaf lettuce at 15 cents a bunch, head lettuce at 19 cents a head, sweet corn at 39 cents a dozen, green and wax beans at 15 cents a pound, peas in the pod at 20 cents a pound, broccoli at 29 cents a bunch, Idaho potatoes at 10 pounds for 69 cents and Wisconsin potatoes at 10 pounds for 49 cents.

Good For Salad
The Wisconsin red potatoes are new crop items and, although they're not good for baking and frying, are excellent for boiling and salad.

The two best buys on meat counters are broiler turkeys at 43 cents a pound and frying chickens at 43 cents a pound. Also fairly reasonable are picnic hams at 43 cents and ham roasts at about 59 cents a pound.

Still expensive are sirloin steak from 85 cents to $1.09, round steak from 69 to 89 cents, rib roast from 79 to 85 cents, pork roast from 69 to 85 cents, lamb shoulder roast at about 65 cents, leg o' lamb at about 79 cents, pork chops from 79 to 89 cents and pork steak from 59 to 69 cents a pound.

Minute Steak

Minute steak may be broiled, but it is generally pan-fried. Heat heavy frying pan until sizzling hot and add 1 tablespoon butter or bacon fat. Sear minute steaks quickly on both sides, lower heat and cook two minutes on each side. Cook two to three minutes longer if well-done steak is desired. Remove to hot platter, spread with softened butter, and sprinkle with salt and pepper.

Vegetables, Sardines in Hearty Salad

Tasty salads are appetite pleasers the year round. And this savory Norway sardine-celery salad, simple to prepare, can be served as a light meal in itself or doled out in small portions to accompany even the most festive dinner.

Sardine Salad
1 (3 1/2 oz.) can Norway sardines
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 cup mayonnaise
2 hard cooked eggs, sliced
1 cup finely chopped celery
1 cup drained cooked peas
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion crisp lettuce leaves
1 tomato, sliced
salt, pepper to taste
parsley (garnish)

Drain and remove the sardines, reserving half of them. Combine with lemon juice and mayonnaise. Add the chopped celery, onion and cooked peas. Season to taste and toss lightly until well blended.

Arrange on crisp lettuce leaves and garnish with sliced egg, tomato and sprigs of parsley. Top with remaining whole sardines. Chill. Serve with salad dressing or mayonnaise on the side.

Cherry-Almond Pie Sparkling New Creation

A summer pie adds beauty and elegance to the otherwise casual, easy-going type meal. This pie is one you must try.

Cherry-Almond Pie
1 baked 9-inch pie shell
1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
1 can (20-ounces) sweetened, frozen cherries, defrosted
Water
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon almond extract
1 cup whipping cream
1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
3 tablespoons toasted, slivered almonds

Soften gelatin in one-fourth cup cold water. Drain cherries and add enough water to the cherry juice liquid to make one cup liquid.

Combine liquid and lemon juice and bring to a boil. Remove from heat and add softened gelatin. Stir until dissolved. Chill.

When mixture begins to thicken, whip until fluffy. Add cherries and almond extract.

Corn Combines With Shrimp In Casserole

The yearly harvest of golden ears of corn for our dinner tables is traditionally American.

This recipe combines shrimp with leftover corn cut from the cob, especially appropriate right now when both foods are in plentiful supply.

Shrimp And Corn Pie
1 1/2 lbs. shrimp, fresh or frozen
1 cup corn grated from cobs
2 cups finely rolled crackers (about 10 ounces)
1-3 cup softened butter
2 eggs
2 tablespoons butter
2 cups milk, scalded
1-3 cup chopped celery
1 cup chopped green pepper
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Salt and Pepper
Shell and devein shrimp. Prepare grated corn by standing fresh ears on end and scraping kernels first with sharp, then with dull, side of knife.

Blend cracker crumbs with one-third cup softened butter, using fingers or blending fork. Reserve one-half cup crumbs. Pat remainder into sides and bottom of 2-quart casserole. Beat eggs slightly. Add two tablespoons butter to hot milk and stir to melt. Add milk gradually to eggs, then blend with chopped celery and green pepper, grated corn, seasonings and uncooked shrimp. Pour into crumb-lined casserole. Top with remaining crumbs. Bake at 300 degrees one hour.

(When the fresh corn season is over, substitute one cup of canned corn.)

Schniege to Attend Talks on Court Revision

Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schniege will attend a joint meeting of the judicial administration committee and the legislative committee of the state legislature at the governor's office in Madison Friday.

The committees will review the proposed plan for reorganization of the Wisconsin court system to be introduced in the 1959 legislature.

Whip cream and sweeten with confectioners' sugar. Fold half the whipped cream into gelatin-cherry mixture and spoon into pie shell.

Chuck Wagon Stew Sturdy, Dependable Outdoor Fare

BY FRANK KOHLER

They say chuck wagon stew was developed on the old Chisholm trail—but be that as it may, it is sturdy and good outdoor fare. Do this one in a good-sized kettle over the fire. Enough here for eight hungry cowpokes, at least.

Chuck Wagon Stew
2 pounds beef chuck, cut in 1 1/2 inch cubes
2 tablespoons bacon fat
4 cups boiling water
1 tablespoon Worcestershire
1 clove garlic, mashed
1 medium onion, thin sliced
1 tablespoon salt
1/2 teaspoon black pepper (more to taste)
1 teaspoon sugar

Numerous Uses for Windowsill Chives

Chives, grown in a pot on a window sill, are good used a number of ways. Add them to scrambled eggs, garnish marinated tomatoes and cucumbers with them, sprinkle them over tomato soup (hot or cold).

6 carrots, scraped and quartered
1 pound tiny white onions, peeled
3 medium size potatoes, peeled and quartered
Melt fat and thoroughly brown the meat on all sides. Add water, Worcestershire, garlic, sliced onion and seasonings, and simmer two hours. Stir occasionally. Add remaining vegetables and simmer about 30 minutes more, until vegetables are tender. The liquid may be strained off, thickened, then stirred back into the stew. We sometimes add a cup or two of beer in place of a like amount of the water. A bay leaf may also be included if you have one along.

Camp Baked Potatoes
These may be done in a large coffee pot. Scrub them well, put them in the pot, cover loosely, and set near the fire where they can cook slowly for an hour or so with even heat. Turn the pot from time to time. For this, the heat should be applied more on the sides; not directly on the bottom. When potatoes are done, proceed as with any baked potato.

Caper Sauce For Fish
We use this sauce with baked fish, first for basting, then serve the remainder in a gravy boat, or poured over the fish on a hot platter. This will provide enough for six to eight.

1 cup lemon juice
1-3 cup olive or salad oil
1 teaspoon garlic salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1-3 cup capers and liquid
2 tablespoons (or to taste) white wine

Stir everything well together in a saucepan over low heat. Baste the fish with part of the sauce while it cooks, then serve remainder. We like to add just a little more wine to the sauce before serving it. (Copyright, 1956)

Green Beans No Longer Have Strings

New stringless varieties of green beans have been developed by the producers, and they are appreciated at least by those who can remember when it was necessary to handle each bean and unstring it before cooking.

Nowadays we clip off the ends and slice them length-wise or across diagonally, as we prefer, and cook them in a small amount of water only a short time.

Some persons like the flavor of bacon or salt pork with their beans, and there is no objection to this if there is no long overcooking. This was customary in the time when the products of a home garden were put to use as long as the beans continued to hang on the vine. Now, one planting succeeds another so we can enjoy the young, tender beans when they are just ready to be picked.

Sweet-Sour Beans
Trim ends from beans. Leave whole, or slice length-wise. Cook with 1-inch pieces of bacon or with diced salt pork, covered in small amount of water until tender. Uncover, and allow most of the water to evaporate. Add sugar and vinegar to taste and heat thoroughly.

Note: A few slices of onion may be cooked with the beans if desired.

Bean Medley
Trim green and yellow beans. Leave whole, and cook separately in small amount of water with dash of salt and dash of sugar. Drain. Arrange alternate portions of beans on individual serving plates, and pass Hollandaise or sour cream sauce with the beans.

18 Tulsa Teenagers Prepare for Test Run Of 300-Pound Rocket

Tulsa, Okla.—(AP)—Eighteen Tulsa teenagers hope to shoot into space-age history with a $450 rocket.

The boys are putting the final touches on a 22-foot, 300-pound rocket they believe will carry the first non-government satellite into orbit. If the test run is successful Sunday, the boys will seek permission to fire the rocket later this month at Holloman Air Force base, New Mexico. "We are almost certain it will reach 40 miles and put the satellite into orbit," said Clifford Ramsey, 18, president of the Tulsa Experimental Rocket Research association. But Ramsey added: "We don't expect it to stay up very long."

Ham Fondue Fine Sunday Night Supper

There's often a bit of a let down in planning Sunday night suppers after the big dinner of the day.

Sometimes we have just leftovers from dinner. But it is more fun when we have a light meal completely different from the earlier main dinner and save the left-overs for dressing up on the next day's menu. That's when American Ham Fondue comes in for special favor.

Pantry shelf items—instant nonfat dry milk powder and deviled ham—share the spotlight with eggs for the fondue.

Ham Fondue
1 cup water
1-3 cup instant nonfat dry

milk powder
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1 (4-oz.) can deviled ham
1 cup (1-inch) cubes day old bread
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
3 egg whites

Pour water into top of double boiler. Sprinkle instant nonfat dry milk powder, flour, salt and dry mustard over surface of water; beat with rotary beater until blended. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens (about eight to 10 minutes). Blend in deviled ham; add bread cubes. Continue to cook, stirring constantly, until heated through-out (about 5 minutes).

Remove from heat; cool slightly. Stir a small amount into egg yolks, then blend egg yolks into remaining hot mixture.

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Carefully fold into ham mixture. Pour into greased 1 1/2 quart casserole. Bake in slow, 325-degree oven about 45 to 50 minutes or until puffy and golden brown. Serve immediately.

Potato Salad Attractive When Carefully Made

Potato salad, so popular for summer meals, is most attractive when it is carefully made. Cut the potatoes into even pieces and mix them gently with the other ingredients and dressing so they won't lose their shape.

The extent of Bellaire park, for which the park board has $200,000 from the George Peabody estate for improvements, is shown above. Area marked "City" at upper left and the abandoned Lake Shore Railroad right-of-way, a 100-foot-wide strip, are held by the city, but probably will be turned over to the board for inclusion in the park. A plan to improve the park was outlined Tuesday by the board by a park consultant. (Post-Crescent Map)

Says More Land Needs. Consultant Outlines Rough Plan For Bellaire Park Development

A rough development plan for Bellaire park has been outlined for the park board by its professional planning consultant.

The largest project for the present will be the seeking of additional land along two narrow, city-owned strips which extend from the park proper.

Exactly what land will be sought will not be known until Planner E. A. Petranek completes a map pinpointing what he thinks would be sufficient area to warrant development along the strips.

One 25-foot-wide strip comes into the north end of the park off N. Sampson street. The other is a 100-foot-wide former Lake Shore Railroad right-of-way which leads from the north end to another, larger city-owned piece east of Rankin court.

Arboretum

"Some people," said Petranek, "will give their lands to the park gratis. Some will ask for only a small consideration. Some will ask a fantastic price... and some will refuse to sell at all."

Without added lands along the strips, Petranek said he wouldn't advise spending money on trying to make a park of the narrow islands.

Generally, Petranek's preliminary plan calls for development along the theme of an arboretum. This means planting of various trees and plants after clearing excess trees and brush.

Specifically, Petranek's plan calls for:

1. A scenic drive along a reconstructed N. Green Bay road at the park site and extending westward, a total of about 1,000 feet in all.
2. Large Park
3. This will require acquisition of river front strips owned by Fred Heinemann and Bruce Purdy. Both have expressed willingness to deed their holdings to the board, it was said.
4. It also involves repair of the river front retaining wall, removal of old boat club buildings and the boat club road, grading and filling of the area and landscaping with a few large trees and large masses of low shrubs and evergreens.
5. Creation of a Boy Scout camping area along the 25-foot strip to N. Sampson. This depends on the acquisition of an undetermined amount of land along the strip.
6. A large park on the land north of the river front and under the E. Pacific street bridge. It would include facilities for picnicking, small family game areas and parking for about 50 cars.
7. Development of the Rankin court area as a small children's playground, with sandboxes, swings, teeter-totters, merry-go-round, horseshoe courts and possibly a small softball diamond.
8. Picnic Areas
9. Picnic grounds along the 100-foot-wide strip when land acquisitions are added to it. Three large picnic areas may be possible.
10. A cyclone fence, scheduled to enclose the park along whatever new property lines can be had.
11. The park, not counting the narrow strips and the city tract on the north, has about seven acres of land, most of it in undergrowth and leading into a deep ravine.
12. The park board has $200,000 available for improvements, money it received from the estate of George F. Peabody, Appleton merchant who died in 1908 leaving unspent trust money for a scenic drive along N. Green Bay.
13. Work on Wall
14. Work of repairing the river front wall will begin immediately. The board authorized Petranek, vice president of Kay Nursery company, Madison, and Kenneth Schmalz, local landscape architect who will supervise work, to hire a stone mason.
15. Removal of the old boat club road and buildings and reconstruction of N. Green Bay will be undertaken after a conference between the board and Director of Public Works Edwin J. Duszynski.
16. Plans also may be made to bring a film of Milwaukee parks like Bellaire park to the city for showing to people who live near the proposed development.
17. Club Plans Steak Fry
18. The Lions club will conduct a steak fry at Village park on Aug. 18.

Argue Prescribing Contraceptives in Public Hospitals

New York — A bitter religious controversy has been touched off here by an unwritten ban on the prescribing of contraceptives in city owned hospitals.

Protestant and Jewish groups are against the ban. Catholics warmly defend it.

The opponents contend the ban reflects a Roman Catholic policy in tax-supported institutions and that the patient should have the right to decide whether contraception violates his religious tenets.

Catholics, holding that artificial birth control is immoral and unnatural, argue that the function of the hospitals is to treat illnesses and not to foster contraception.

Dr. Morris A. Jacobs, commissioner of hospitals and center of the controversy, has submitted a report on the situation to Mayor Robert F. Wagner. The mayor has given no indication if, or when, the report will be made public.

The debate was sparked by the case of a Protestant woman confined to Kings County hospital in Brooklyn with diabetes.

Dr. Louis M. Hellman, her physician and also director of the hospital's division of obstetrics and gynecology, arranged to fit her with a contraceptive device July 16. He held that another pregnancy would endanger her life and that of the child.

Stockbridge Evaluation Hiked in Reassessment

Stockbridge — The assessed value of property in the village was nearly doubled in a reassessment recently completed by Joseph Doerfler, Appleton.

The new evaluation of the village is $1,445,000 compared with $751,000 last year.

Doerfler said all of the property was brought up to present day market value.

He will conduct an open house from 7 to 9 o'clock Friday night and 2 to 6 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the village hall to explain assessment increases. The board of review will meet at the village hall Monday.

The big increase came in the real estate brackets. The new value is set at $1,208,000 compared with $576,000 last year. Personal property increased from $175,000 to $237,000.

The real estate assessment breaks down into $100,000 for residential land and $600,000 for residential improvements; $22,000 for merchantile land and $178,000 for merchantile improvements; $700 for manufacturing land and $15,300 for improvements, and $172,000 for agricultural land and $111,000 for improvements.

Doerfler said taxpayers wishing to appear before the board of review must file a written protest on a form to be available at the open house. All testimony before the board will be under oath.

Class of '58 First To Graduate Under 4 Different Moons

Tucson, Ariz. —(U)— College graduates are really going out into a unique world — thanks to the earth satellites.

Addressing the University of Arizona's 1958 graduating class, Dr. Alan T. Waterman, director of the National Science Foundation, noted:

"It is safe to say this year's commencement is the first to be held beneath four different moons — one placed there by nature and three by man."

2 Become First Women To Carry Florida Mail

Dunedin, Fla. —(U)— This small Florida west coast city is proud of its two women mail carriers, Mrs. Betty Peters and Mrs. Sarah McCraney, who may be Florida's first distaff postmen.

Both had had experience as postal clerks before qualifying for delivery routes. So far, they haven't donned the traditional blue-gray uniforms.

Both like the work and find the hours, 9:30 in the morning to 3 o'clock in the afternoon, ideal. Mrs. McCraney has two children and also is attending St. Petersburg Junior college at night. Mrs. Peters is the mother of four.

Words Often Misused: Avoid the expression "just recently." Since "recently" means not long ago, a short time past, the "just" is not needed.

Often Mispronounced: Khedive (Turkish viceroy). Pronounce keh-deev, accent on second syllable.

Often Misspelled: Inane; observe the "in." Innate; observe the "inn."

Word Study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Today's word: lacrimose; shedding, or given to shedding, tears. (Pronounce lack-ri-mose, accent on first syllable). "Her lacrimose complaining became intolerable to her husband."

Blueberry Shortcake
Long-Time Favorite

It's a wise cook who knows and uses an age-old recipe that has stood the test of time.

Blueberry Beaten Shortcake is one of these. It is a truly summer gift dessert that comes down from old-fashioned cooks who knew how to use fruits in season. In grandmother's day, the sauce that went over the shortcake was as important as the beaten cake.

Here is a modern adaptation:

Beaten Shortcake
2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup shortening
1 1/2 cups milk

Sift together flour, salt, sugar, baking powder. Work shortening into dry ingredients with fingers or pastry blender. Beat dough for 10 minutes, using wire whisk or fork.

Pat dough into two 8-inch, well-greased layer pans. Bake in pre-heated oven at 400 degrees for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake for 10 minutes longer. Serve with Blueberry Sauce.

Blueberry Sauce
1 box fresh blueberries
4 cups water
1/2 cups sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup fresh blueberries

Boil the pint box of blueberries, water, sugar and lemon juice together for 15 minutes. Remove from heat. Cool. Chill in refrigerator.

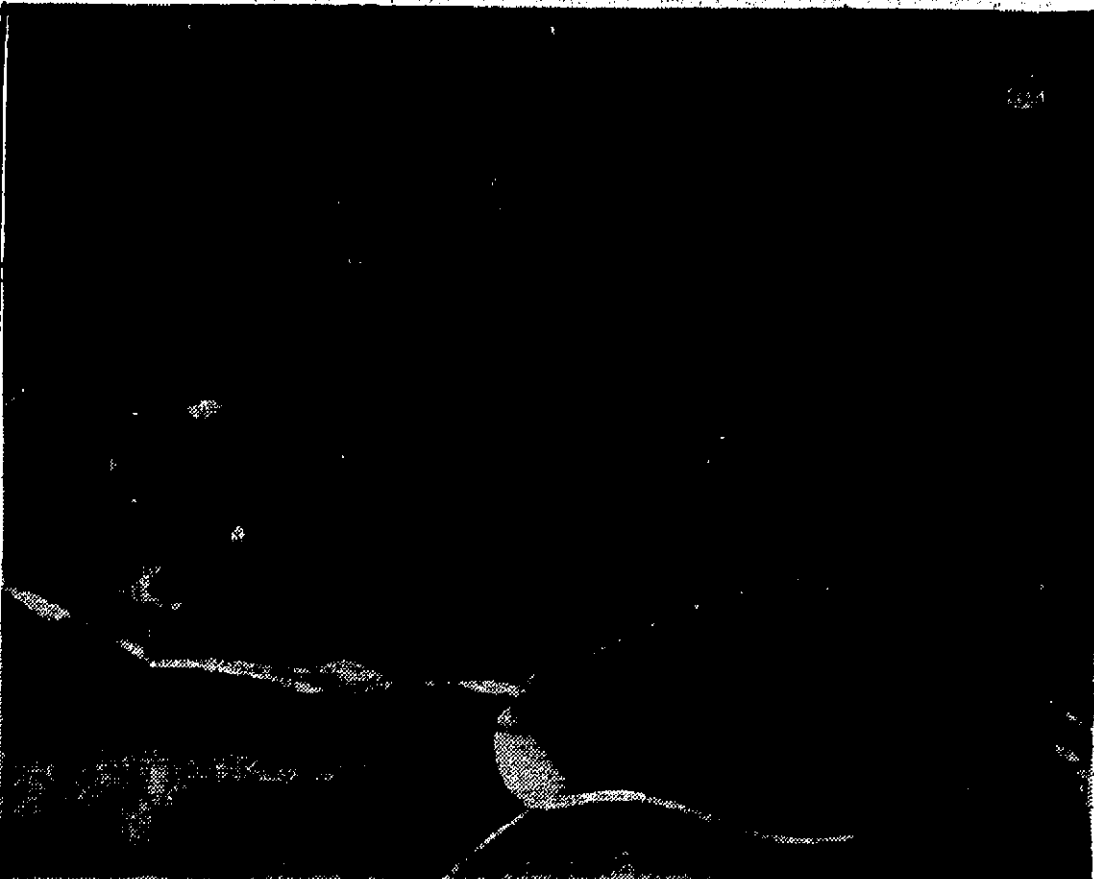

Before serving, stir in one cup washed and thoroughly drained fresh blueberries. Spoon generously over round of hot Blueberry Beaten Shortcake.

Place second layer on top and spoon more sauce and berries over the whole. Cut in wedges to serve, with additional sauce and, if desired, whipped cream.

COOL and HEALTHFUL

Place second layer on top and spoon more sauce and berries over the whole. Cut in wedges to serve, with additional sauce and, if desired, whipped cream.

Watch Mouths Water as You spoon luscious blueberry sauce over a warm-from-the-oven, old-fashioned biscuit dough.

Even During Hot Weather

CARL N. NEUFERT, M.D.
State Health Officer

Just because the calendar says summer is no reason to take a vacation from eating foods that provide us with the necessary nourishment.

That's just what many of us do, however, during our well as the popular cold drinks.

Enjoyable though they may be, these foods do not constitute a well-balanced diet. The snacks and beverages, moreover, can spoil appetites for good meals—especially in children who have small capacities.

Make Right Choices

It is true that in hot weather some of us limit our activities and thus don't need as many calories as in cooler weather. For this reason it's wise to eliminate rich desserts and other dishes containing excess fat, starches and sugars. Instead we should continue eating the foods that provide us with the necessary proteins, vitamins and minerals—milk, lean meats, eggs and cheese, the leafy green and yellow vegetables.

One means of beating the heat, food-wise, is through picnic meals planned to contribute to a well-rounded diet. Cold foods are as nourishing as those served warm. Barbecues can offer variety and important nourishment when served with fruits and vegetables.

All foods, however, spoil quickly in warm, humid weather. As a precaution, hot foods should be kept hot and cold foods cold. Leftovers should either be discarded or kept cold and protected from flies.

With ingenuity and proper planning, there's no need to neglect nourishment when it comes to serving summertime fare.

Steak Sandwiches

Minute steak is often used for sandwiches. The cooked steak may be placed slices of buttered bread or toast. Any fat that remains in the pan should be poured over the bread before the sandwiches are served. If desired, slices of sweet onion may be placed on top of the steak before the bread slices are put together.

Set Referendum On Site for New Police Station

Walnut-Doty, Some Indefinite
Alternative on Sept. 9 Ballot

Neenah — Voters will be asked Sept. 9 for their opinion on whether a new police station should be built at Walnut street and E. Doty.

Sanders Hansen

Aldermen Wednesday night resolved to hold an advisory referendum at the fall primary election. Another referendum is tentatively scheduled for Nov. 4 on the final question of whether or not to borrow money to build a station.

Wednesday's action is a reversal of a stand taken by the previous city council last March 5, when a request for a site referendum was made by the Neenah-Menasha Chamber of Commerce and rejected by an 8 to 2 vote.

Heated controversy developed over the Doty - Walnut site during the weeks before the $270,000 bond issue referendum April 1. The chamber contended first that the land should be used for off-street parking and then that a comprehensive plan for future city growth should be effected before any site is chosen. The bond referendum failed by 201 votes.

Vote Not Clear
The issue was resurrected in mid-June when the new city council declared that the referendum did not make clear the attitude of the citizens toward the selected site and that the vote may have failed on account of the cost.

Since then the station cost has been revised downward to the neighborhood of $200,000, although exact estimates and plans have not been made public by city officials.

The Sept. 9 referendum will offer two alternatives: "The proposed police station should be at the corner of Walnut and Doty" and "The proposed police station should be at some other place." Voters will be told to mark either but not both proposals.

Other Question Rejected
A proposal to phrase the question "Should the proposed police station be at the corner of Walnut and Doty?" with "Yes" and "No" alternatives was rejected on the advice of Ald. Warren Sanders.

NHS Gym Treatment Delayed by Council

Board to Ask For Funds in 1959 Budget

Neenah — Acoustical treatment for the Neenah High school gymnasium was delayed at least until next year by the council Wednesday night.

Hedberg Parman

The board of education had offered to pay $5,000 of the cost if the city would pay the balance. The job was estimated at a maximum of $9,000.

The aldermen acted on a finance committee recommendation that the school board put the total cost in its 1959 budget which will be reviewed by the council this fall.

Last fall the council eliminated $9,000 from the school budget which had been earmarked for the gymnasium treatment. School officials contended that the gym is used for assembly purposes as well as athletic and physical education events, and that the sound conditions make it difficult to hear in certain parts of the enormous room.

Seven of the nine aldermen present voted for the delay.

Alderman Asks For Opinion on Regional Plan

Bell 'Convinced'
Early Reluctance
Is Unfounded

Neenah — The council should be ready to voice an opinion on regional planning at its next meeting Aug. 20, A. J. Dinius told his fellow councilmen Wednesday night.

Dinius

Dinius is the only member of the Fox Valley Regional Planning commission that has not expressed itself on the proposal of Metropolitan Planners, Inc., for local plans for the 10 member municipalities and the region.

Mayor Chester Bell reported to the council that Kenneth Schellie, president of the Indianapolis firm, met with him last week and "convinced me as much as anyone can" that the mayor's original reluctance to support the proposal was unfounded.

Schellie explained, Bell said, that any regional plan for the Fox Cities would be an outgrowth of individual plans and that no planner would begin with a preconceived notion of a regional plan.

Schellie's firm, if awarded a contract for the plan by the regional commission, would not do engineering or architectural work, Bell said. Rather it would map out future growth and also devote much time to formulating a capital improvements plan.

Green Light On Plans for Water Plant

Neenah — The wheels began rolling toward a new $385,000 addition to the city water plant Wednesday night when aldermen authorized the waterworks commission to have plans and specifications drawn up.

The addition is to include three new filters, bringing the daily filtering capacity to seven million gallons, and an enlargement of the settling basin to a 10 million gallon daily capacity.

This addition would take care of city needs for the next six or seven years, aldermen were told at an informal session last Thursday.

The council finance committee was told to study methods of paying for the new facilities. No appropriation for plans and specifications was needed, since that will be included in the total cost, which probably will be paid for by a bond issue.

Reports Prowler

The children, alone at home, went into the house and the man then looked in the windows. Sheriff's deputies were unable to find a trace of the prowler.

St. Elizabeth hospital Appletan, this morning reported the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. James Rau, route 2, Neenah.

Legion Nine Clashes With Oshkosh Squad

Menasha Seeks 5th Victory in Second Half Play

Menasha — The Menasha Junior Legion nine will play the third last game on its schedule tonight, traveling to Oshkosh to face the dethroned state champs. Game time will be 8 o'clock at the Municipal field on Sawyer avenue.

After tonight's fray, the Menashans have a test at Kimberly next Wednesday night and a makeup against state tournament-bound Fond du Lac at a date still to be set.

Oshkosh, which wrapped up most of the league and state Legion honors in recent years, is in a rebuilding stage. It split even in eight first round games and has a 6-2 mark in second half play.

Posts 13-8 Mark

Including tournament and exhibition play, the Oshkosh squad has an overall 13-8 record for the season. Although it is five games above the .500 mark, the eight losses constitute its largest setback total in several seasons.

Menasha goes into the fray in the playoff by edging the Robins 9-7. Mortell was the winner and Walter took the loss. It was his first setback after seven wins. Gary Gunderson, Wayne Sturn and Mike Brantmeier combined for six of the winners' nine hits. Ricky Zimmerman had two for the Robins.

The Bats defeated the Loons 7-3 on Mortell's one-hitter. He walked five and fanned seven. Terry Haack homered for the winners.

Neenah — The Marathon Ramblers, unbeaten leaders in the National division of the Twin City Industrial Softball league, can clinch its section's championship when it plays Neenah Foundry at 6:30 tonight at the Recreation field.

The Ramblers have 10 straight victories while runner-up Foundry has a 7-7 record. A Marathon win would give it a four-game advantage with just three games left on its schedule. Foundry and every other team then would have four or more losses. The Ramblers came away with an 8-1 win in the first meeting.

The Pack has a 10-1 record while Main Office, which won its game Tuesday night, holds a half game advantage with 11-1.

The Packagers rolled to 23-0 and 24-1 wins over Tissue Mills in their first two meetings. Tissue Mills has a 5-7 slate.

Jan. 1 Average

After considerable discussion, the league directors voted to continue to use the Jan. 1 average for the tournament. Before the 1960 tourney, the executive board will discuss the possibility of using the preceding season's averages to determine the handicap. The group also voted to continue use of the 80 per cent of 180 scratch as the handicap basis.

The 1959 tournament will get underway Jan. 31 at Mid-Town.

Hear Stewart

Andy Stewart, who is in charge of field service and bonding for the American Bowling Congress, spoke to the group on the importance of bonding and sanctions and a film on the 1950 all-star match game championship was shown.

Berro distributed supplies to the league secretaries for the upcoming season. All 20 Menasha leagues were represented.

Longest Hitter
The 32-year-old Bayer, who turned pro four years ago, has become known as golf's longest hitter. Drives of 350 and 360 yards are not unusual for the big man, and he has reportedly driven 330 yards on the fly. On another occasion, one of his drives is said to

Tonight the Foxes will send righthander Earl Furlow (2-1) to the mound against the Dav-Sox righthander Stover McIlwain (7-4) in the second game of the series.
Bloodworth, who had previously beaten the Dav-Sox, 4-1, on June 2, and 6-4 on July 7, allowing three and four hits respectively, needed help from Don Cameron, who pitched the last four innings. Gary Peters (10-5) was the loser. The win was Bloodworth's first since July 7.

Defeats Strzyzewski

LC-K Nine Remains Unbeaten in 2nd Round
Kimberly — Little Chute-Kimberly remained undefeated in second round Fox Valley league action by edging Manitowoc 6-4 in a well played game here Wednesday night.
The victory is the fourth straight for the Papermakers. Manitowoc now has a 4-2 slate. Tonight LC-K meets Reedsville at 8 o'clock at the Kimberly park.
Al Harke outdueling a pair of Manty hurlers as he held the visitors in check by not allowing more than one run in any inning. In addition he struck out 11 batters and issued only one base on balls.
Strzyzewski Starts
John Strzyzewski started for the losers and worked the first five innings. He was nicked for all 13 hits collected by LC-K while he struck out six. Stindt came on in the sixth and hurled flawless ball the rest of the way striking out three.
Manitowoc held the lead briefly as it scored a run in the top of the first but the Papermakers came back with a pair in the first and one in the second to take a 3-1 lead. Manty tied it with a run in the fourth and another in the fifth.
LC-K shelled Strzyzewski in the last of the fifth by bagging six hits and three runs to take a firm hold on the lead. Harke gave up a lone tally in the eighth to preserve the margin.
Manty scored in the opening frame when Habelwitz and Leneau each singled and after Shelthout fanned Glenn Siebold walked to load the bases.

Aaron Jolts 2-Run Homer

Milwaukee —(AP)— Chalk up another assist for Whit Wyatt, the Milwaukee Braves' astute pitching coach.
Wyatt helped right-hander Carl Willey improve his curve ball and Wednesday night it was the rookie's money pitch as he turned back the Pittsburgh Pirates, 2-1, on only three hits.
Hank Aaron's twenty-fifth homer, a 2-run blast in the first inning after the Pirates had taken a 1-0 lead on Bill Virdon's sixth circuit blow on the second pitch of the game, stood up all the way.
Didn't Know
The squeaker, the Braves' eighth victory in their last nine games, increased their National league lead over runnerup San Francisco to six games — biggest bulge of the season. The third-place Pirates are now eight games behind.
"I didn't know what to think about that quick home run," Willey said in the clubhouse afterwards. "I thought maybe I didn't have it."
Willey went on to explain that he threw mostly curves.
"Wyatt's been working with me," he said. "I wasn't following through properly with the curve. I was letting it go too high. He noticed what I was doing wrong and corrected me."

Willey Fans 7
Willey set down the Buccos in order in the second, third, fifth, seventh and eighth frames. Besides Virdon's homer, which came off a high changeup, the only other safeties were a 2-out single by Frank Thomas in the fourth and a leadoff double by Virdon in the ninth. Virdon was the only Pirate base runner to reach second base after the first.
Willey struck out seven, including Dick Stuart three times in a row, and walked only one. It was his fourth straight victory and his sixth.

Venturi Opens Defense Of 'Milwaukee' Title

San Franciscan Heads Field of 150 Who Start Play Today in 72-Hole Tournament

BY CHUCK CAPALDO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Milwaukee —(AP)— Hand-some Ken Venturi of San Francisco, his putting troubles apparently behind him, opens defense of his Milwaukee open golf championship today at the Tripoli Golf club.
Venturi headed a field of 150, including nine of professional golf's 10 leading money winners, bent on taming Tripoli's 35-35-70 standard during the 72-hole, $35,000 tournament. First prize is $5,300.
Comes From Chicago
The dark-haired, 27-year-old former auto dealer shaved 13 strokes off par here a year ago with a 267. Tripoli's hum-py greens seemed to be made to order for him.
He comes here fresh from the Chicago Open where he clinched a $9,000, 1-stroke victory by canning a 60-foot putt on the 69th hole. Veterans Jackie Burke, Jr., of Kiamish Lake, N. Y., and Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N.C., finished in a tie for second. They are entered here.
The triumph at Chicago gave Venturi his biggest golf payday in nearly four months. He started well on the current tour, winning three of the first 10 tournaments and finishing among the 10 leaders in the rest. In the next 13 tournaments, however, Venturi's putter went sour and he wound up among the top 10 finishers only three times.
He moved up to third place on the PGA's money list with total official winnings of $30,870.

Ahead of Ken
Ahead of Venturi on the list and here to compete on Tripoli's short, 6,336-yard layout are Masters champion Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., No. 1 with $37,157 and Billy Casper, Jr., of Apple Valley, Calif., second with $32,123.
The only absentee among the top 10 money winners is PGA champion Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla. Finsterwald, No. 4 on the list with $25,338, was a late scratch due to a business commitment in New York.
The field also includes Tommy Bolt, National open champ from Crystal River, Fla.

Herb Elliott Predicts 3:50 Mile Is Next

3:50 set by Australia's John Landy at Tarku, Finland, June 21, 1954.
Ibbotson's 3:57.2 at London's White City stadium July 19, 1957, has not been ratified because of a pacing controversy.

Elliott has all the power and energy of a great miler. He got them through an unusual diet and method of training. His training diet consists of oats, nuts, raisins, dried fruits and diced bananas. Through the winter his training schedule calls for runs and climbs on the rugged hills around Portsea, some 60 miles south of Melbourne. He never has lost a mile race since starting big-time competition in December 1956.

Lap times for Elliott's famous run were: 58 seconds, 1:58, 2:50 and 3:54.5—ideal timing for any world record run. The last quarter was run in the remarkable time of 55.5 seconds.

Bluejays Near League Lead

Bomb Bees, 16-0; Winona Shades Raiders, 4 to 3

By The Associated Press
It was great for Wisconsin but sad for Iowa teams in the Three-I league Wednesday night.

Green Bay marched to within a half game of league-leading Cedar Rapids by bombing Burlington, 16-0, with a 20-hit attack.

Davenport dropped a 7-4 decision to Fox Cities and Cedar Rapids was a 4-3 loser to Winona.

Eddie Rakow got plenty of help from his Green Bay mates but his own efforts were enough to win. He not only pitched a 6-hit shutout to earn his tenth victory, but clouted four hits in five trips and drove across two runs. Nate Smith homered in the fifth.

Cedar Rapids lost a full game of its league lead when Winona eked out a victory on Rog Scery's homer in the sixth with a man aboard. The Braves rallied in the ninth. Joe Trenary doubling home a pair of runs, but the bid ended with the tying run on third.

On the tournament circuit last year—when Bayer moved up from twenty-seventh to twelfth among all money winners—he reportedly sacrificed some of his driving power for accuracy. On exhibitions, however, he still goes all out.

Last year, Bayer earned $17,557 in PGA purses alone. He makes personal appearances on behalf of the golf club manufacturer with which he is affiliated. In 1957, Bayer won the Canadian Open and placed second in the Insurance and Western opens.

Among others who have played BDM exhibitions in the past, besides Toski, are Jimmy Demaret, Joe Kirkwood, Jr., and feminine stars Patty Berg and Jackie Pung.

ped inside the Packers' 2-yard line on four straight plays.

"We caught 'em looking where they were going," defensive tackle Dave Hanner said, neglecting to report that some good line play helped too.

Pro gridders of course are good actors. Some of them have been known to look one way and run the other.

The Packers will put in many practice hours—many opportunities to polish up the "looking" and "watching," because only five non-league games are scheduled.

One non-looper will be played in August—Pittsburgh in Milwaukee's annual Shrine game Wednesday night, Aug. 20, but then starting on Labor day it will be a game every week end until late in December.

The Packers will play host to Philadelphia here at 4:30 Labor day afternoon and then play New York in Boston Sept. 6, Washington in Winston-Salem, N. C. Sept. 13, and the Chicago Cardinals in Minneapolis Sept. 20.

The real skirmishing starts here Sept. 28 against the Chicago Bears

Expect Return of Mexican Railroad Service Today

Mexico City —A— Railroad service was expected to return to normal in Mexico today under an agreement ending a 4-day walkout on the strikers' terms.

The agreement signed in the labor ministry last night provided that Demetrio Vallejo would be the only candidate for secretary general of the railway union in elections to be held within 15 days.

Vallejo called 100,000 workers out on strike last Saturday night after the labor ministry ruled that he had been elected to the post illegally and Salvador Quesada still held it. Quesada agreed not to run in the new elections, reportedly after President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines intervened personally.

The strike almost paralyzed Mexico's nationalized railroads but nonstriking workers, retired employees and executives gradually were restoring service when the settlement came. Some food and fuel shortages had developed, but skeleton passenger service to the United States continued.

The agreement also provided that all workers arrested during the strike will be released immediately (about 200 paid $2 fines for disturbing the peace and were released yesterday); all workers fired will be restored to their jobs, and salaries will be paid for the strike period.

A strike of telegraphers to support the railway workers also was expected to end. Army telegraphers already were restoring service.

May Protest Firing At U. S. Tourists by Hungarian Guards

Vienna —A— The Austrian government is considering an official protest against Hungarian guards' firing at American tourists who tried to photograph border fortifications.

Since no one was hurt, Austrian border police did not record the Americans' names. They were at the village of Deutsch-Jahrdorf, about 165 yards inside Austria when a machinegun in a Hungarian watch tower overlooking barbed wire fences and mine fields opened up on them, a foreign office spokesman said.

Vienna newspapers urged Austrian authorities to warn tourists of the risks in trying to get a glimpse through the iron curtain. Travel agencies have been organizing trips to the Hungarian border.

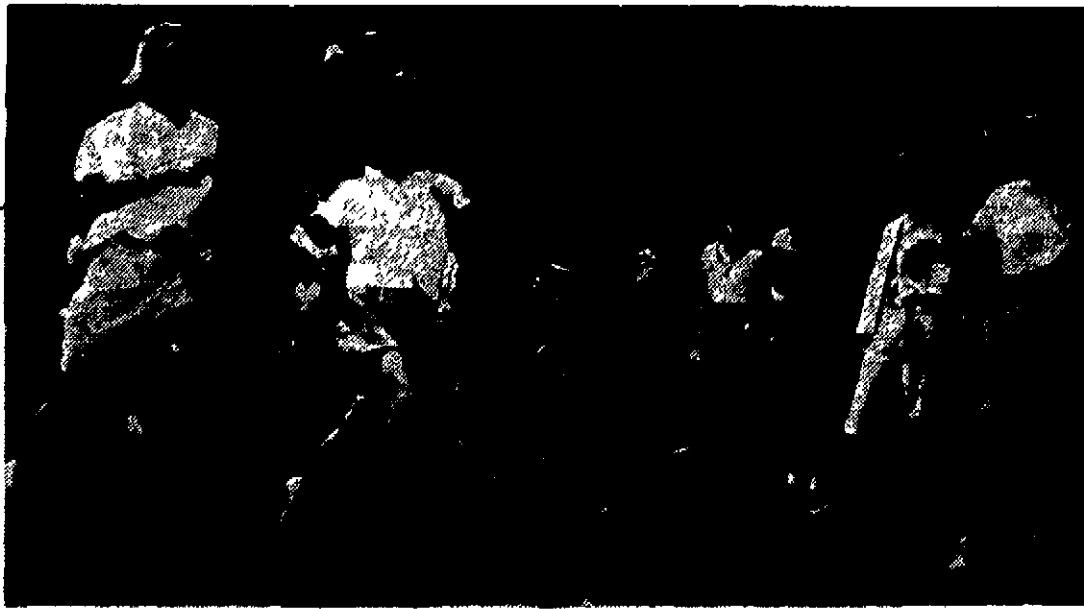

When the 4-power occupation of Austria ended in 1955, Hungary removed its border barriers. After the 1956 Hungarian uprising during which thousands of refugees crossed the border, stronger fortifications than before were built to stop escapes.

Train Starts as Girls Crawl Under; 1 Dead, 1 Injured

Littlefield, Texas —A— Another freight train blocked the crossing and the three girls started to crawl under it, as they often did. Josephine Rodriguez, 15, told officers yesterday.

Suddenly, she said, the air brakes hissed and the train lurched into motion. Dora Rodriguez, 13, Josephine's sister, was crushed to death. A wheel sliced off the left leg of Carolina Martinez, 11, below the knee. Josephine scrambled to safety.

Gifts to Officials No Worry to One-Third of Nation's Teenagers

BY EUGENE GILBERT

Nearly a third of several hundred American young people told us recently they thought the acceptance of expensive gifts by government officials is all right.

That was a bigger surprise to us than the 53 per cent who thought the practice all wrong. The remainder expressed no opinion.

"What difference does it make?" asked Gary Linton, New York City. "Just as our polls then indicated the teenagers would have voted for Eisenhower 2 to 1.

An important aspect of the popularity vote on Nixon is that while 89 per cent of the youngsters regarded him as the leading Republican possibility for president, against

per cent say they would vote for him, against a combined with some policies of the present administration, as against 39 per cent who approved strongly of certain policies. Their comments were all over the lot, but let's sample a few criticisms:

"No tax reductions." Kurt Bondi of El Monte, Calif.

"I think the south should be allowed to work out its own segregation problems." Kathy Furley, Illion, N. Y.

"They call my generation many Democrats as Republican total of 50 per cent for the beat; rather the administration exemplifies the complacent, over-hesitant "beat" type." Frederic Litto, Los Angeles.

And some approving comments: "Strengthening of defense." Chace Strickland, Tuscaloosa, Ala. "Tendency to allow freedom of economic activity." Francis Anderson, Philadelphia. "The stand for integration in the south." Diane Albert, Olean, N. Y.

And of that 50 per cent, Kennedy rates the lion's share — 33 per cent — making Stevenson look like an also ran.

Four Young Sisters Just Too Much; Boy Runs Away From Home

Bristol, Vt. —A— When Morton Doolittle, 14, heard his mother had given birth to the fourth girl in the family, he ran away from home. Patrolman Charles Lawler found the hungry young hitchhiker walking the streets yesterday in Glens Falls, N.Y., about 80 miles from Bristol.

popular with the boys than with the girls.

The three targets for both admiration and dislike in the Eisenhower cabinet proved to be Nixon, Dulles and Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

On the positive side, the percentages were 32 for Nixon, 29 for Dulles and 16 for Benson. On the negative, Dulles rated 35, Nixon 33 and Benson once more 16.

Major issues indicated by these young people for the major issues in government are 31 for atomic weapons, 20 for negotiations with Russia, 16 for the recession and 14 for farm prices.

Forty-four per cent of our informants said they disagree

Perez Jimenez Gained Wealth as a Dictator

Junta Estimates Pudgy Despot Took Over $250 Million From Venezuela

Caracas, Venezuela —A— The job of running oil-rich Venezuela for 10 years apparently paid Dictator Gen. Marcos Perez Jimenez well.

Judging from evidence just unearthed by investigators for the provisional government, the pudgy, 43-year-old despot jumped from a nobody — financially speaking — to a multimillionaire.

And aside from running the government, Perez Jimenez apparently had his hand in anything that made money.

The military-civilian junta has estimated that Perez Jimenez got away with from $250 to $300 million when he went into exile after the bloody revolution Jan. 23. That's just one estimate.

There are others that place Perez Jimenez's wealth higher — stacked away in foreign banks in the months and years preceding his ouster. Perez Jimenez also left millions of dollars in property behind.

Dr. Pablo Rugieri Parra, Venezuela's attorney general, said recently the provisional government had seized property of the former dictator valued at more than $100 million.

The hunt and seizure of Perez Jimenez holdings goes on. Rugieri Parra said the fallen dictator apparently had valuable holdings of some kind in almost every sector of Venezuela.

The government has just received a sworn report arising out of one investigation showing that Perez Jimenez' total personal assets in 1949, shortly after he seized power, amounted to only 47,000 bolivars (about $15,000).

$400,000 Home

The ousted dictator, after he took refuge in Miami, Fla., last spring, lost no time in buying a $400,000 home there. Whatever he got away with, it's obvious he has no money worries.

Venezuelan courts have been reported preparing evidence to present to U. S. authorities to ask Perez Jimenez' extradition to Caracas for trial as a "common criminal." But no one seems to know when a formal request will be made.

In the meantime, Perez Jimenez' residence in the United States provides ammunition for Venezuela's communists and other anti-American Venezuelans who attack the United States for harboring a dictator.

Court Reverses Charge Against Arthur Miller

Washington —A— The U. S. court of appeals today struck down the contempt of congress conviction of playwright Arthur Miller, 42, husband of actress Marilyn Monroe.

Miller was convicted of contempt in U. S. district court here last year for refusing to tell the house committee on un-American activities the names of communist writers with whom he admittedly met in New York in 1949.

U. S. District Judge Charles F. McLaughlin gave him a suspended 30-day jail sentence and imposed a $500 fine.

The appeals court, in reversing the conviction, directed the district court to enter a judgment of acquittal.

The appellate court said in a brief unsigned opinion that from the record it appeared to be clear that Miller "had a right to leave the hearing thinking that the direction to answer was still suspended, if not abandoned."

Los Angeles Attorney Rules Cats Not Under Laws for Men or Dogs

Los Angeles —A— The laws of man and dog do not apply to cats in Los Angeles.

Cats, the city attorney ruled yesterday, are not subject to the leash law, may not be trapped, cannot be accused of trespassing and may fight at will.

The ruling was handed down in response to an application from Harrison A. Walter to set out a trap to catch a cat that is running his patio furniture.

Nobody, concluded the city attorney, but nobody, can tell a cat what to do.

Short Sleeves to Feature Fall, Winter Sports Shirts

BY EDWARD LAWRENCE

Short sleeve sport shirts for autumn and winter will be offered this year for the first time. The logic of it is that, since there's no cold weather (at least theoretically) in the well-heated modern home, there's no sense in trussing up the arms in sleeves.

At the same time the fabric—a wash and wear blend of Dacron and cotton—is warmer than summer-weight shirts. No danger of a sudden chill.

Sporty Belts For Fall

Distinctive belts will abound in the season ahead. Very likely, some of our more rugged individualists (who will cast the first stone) will take to wearing sporty belts with very somber business suits.

braided cotton covered elastic . . . contour leathers . . . wooden buckles . . . cinch ring buckles . . . ultra-soft tubular leathers. Narrow widths—as narrow as one-half inch—are the most notable feature of the new cinctures.

Dudes will lap up the jewelry-styled buckles on some belts. There are semiprecious stones, sport motifs (including ancient autos, locomotives and other Americana so popular with the cuff link crowd), heraldic emblems and all sorts of gorgeous historical footnotes.

Tie Picture

The necktie situation is getting out of hand. They're talking now about a "chemise" tie—tapers at the end.

But one necktie idea may very well be the greatest boon to men since women. If it works. This is a stain-repellent called Scotchguard into which some manufacturers of cravats are dipping their products. There's nothing harder to get really clean than a spotted tie. We intend to secure one or two of these no-stain ties and issue a full report after subjecting them to healthy doses of food, drink and exotic sauces.

Incidentally, this stain-repellent is also used in preparing brushed pigskin for suede shoes. Henceforth, blue suede shoes will stay true-blue. Which may or may not be a boon.

Furniture Styled to Please Varied Tastes

View Fall Showings

Individuality in a world of increasing conformity is the refreshing influence sweeping the furniture world. Forecasts from mid-season showings in Chicago, hub of the home furnishing market, indicate that interiors this fall will be as personalized as the dreams of the lady of the house.

Design inspiration appears to stem from the most romantic and glamorous historic eras. Restraint is the keynote, with manufacturers tempering patterns in keeping with contemporary ideas of good taste and living tempo.

On display are furnishings ranging centuries in influence: French Provincial, Early American, Spanish-Moorish, Oriental and Contemporary.

Spanish Scope

Most unusual, perhaps, is the scope of the Spanish-Moorish trend in the new showings. Interpretation has been modified but such details as copper inlaid medallions and flat carved flower forms centered with tiny brass drawer pulls betray foreign origin.

Wood banding has been applied to door and drawer fronts, softly rounded on the edges recalling old carving but with none of its dust-catching fussiness. Narrow legs of elegant line have been braced for sturdiness with under framing of shaped stretchers.

Simplicity is offered by the Oriental-keyed furnishings, a restraint less austere than the functional modern styles. Adherence to true form is noted in such models as tables with round straight legs bound to underneath bracing by wrappings of brass.

Oriental Details

Rectangular table tops with gently rounded edges, made of dark mahogany and banded with rosewood create the illusion of the black-stained teak of the East. And straight from the late 17th century are the dining and side chairs, with gracefully curved backs, first adopted by the Orientals as a courtesy to European visitors.

French Provincial adaptations have always had admirers and these will be pleased with the new offerings. Added to the field are items scaled to today's smaller homes and clean of ornate bric-a-brac such as chests which can be set around a room for maximum storage.

The easy warmth and hospitality of Early American furniture are among fall patterns. This rustic furniture is most favored in maple and the new designs are available in both unfinished and finished versions. Wingback chairs, scroll designs on hutch cabinets and the distinctive knobbed legs are among characteristics.

New Materials

As current as the jet age are the Contemporary pieces which are marked this year by new advances in construction materials. Light in scale and sculptured to the human form, the furnishings are designed in molded plywood and fiber glass.

Arm rests, back supports and cushions are often covered with foam upholstery about an inch thick for comfort. Strong but simple tapered legs on contemporary furnishings give an illusion of lightness. The new designs are particularly effective in small rooms as they lend to a feeling of spaciousness.

The Individual With a Desire for the modern in furniture will choose the International modern pieces which abandon the traditional. Light in scale, such groups feature the sculptured seating shapes which fit the human form so that foam, upholstery only about an inch thick is necessary for comfort. The simplicity of this scoop sofa with the sculptured back and arms and the tapered legs gives the illusion of spaciousness to a room. It introduces the comfortable lines of a lounge chair, to multiple seating.

Regardless of What Period a piece of furniture belongs to it has been improved for comfort while maintaining characteristics of its predecessors. Above left is a reclining chair of great great-grandfather's vintage. In order for him to relax he had to crank the chair before leaning back. On the right is the modern interpretation of the original reclining chair. Today's chair has greater depth and width, with the back and arms designed to fit the human contours. All one must do to completely relax, is to lightly push on the arms of the chair and lean back. The chair does the rest. The newest models will float back automatically under the sitter's weight.

Milk Glass Decorative

Milk glass tableware and accessories are at home in any period - Traditional, Modern or Early American, and in any room. A milk glass bowl filled with bright flowers is a pretty addition on a coffee table.

Use a pair of milk glass vases on a credenza. A hutch cabinet becomes a focal point of a room when a collection of milk glass is grouped on its shelves, upper far-left photo. Milk glass cologne bottles can enhance a dressing table in the bedroom.

Milk glass has an interesting background. The earliest mention of milk glass dates back to 2000 B.C. when white glass beads were discovered in a grave in Egypt.

Threads of opaque - white glass were found in early Venetian glass pieces, embedded in clear or colored glass as decoration. Records in England show that among glasses ordered between 1666 and 1673 from a Venetian glass-maker were some of milk-white glass.

Appearance in U. S.

In this country, the first milk glass was made after the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown. In the beginning it was produced only in small factories and in limited quantities.

By 1880, most of the world's production of milk glass was centered in the United States, and it became a staple in almost every household.

Many of the pieces of milk glass that are available today are authentic reproductions of pieces from antique collections. However, with our changed mode of living, we have found much more varied uses for many pieces.

In days of yesteryear, a spoonholder was a 'must' on every table. Today we see reproductions of this piece being used as a planter or vase. Toothpick holders at one time were an accepted part of any table setting. Today, we use these items to hold cigarettes on a coffee or dining table. Skilled Workmanship Needed

Most milk glass pieces are handpressed, which means a mould is used to shape the molten glass both inside and out. The mould has a cavity into which molten glass is forced by pressure with the aid of an iron plunger.

Most of the moulds used are made of cast iron, and must be carefully tooled and shaped by skilled mould makers. These articles, after they come from the mould, get a hand-finished shaping by

No Place Like Home, Says Airman Who's Traveler

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: I'm writing this letter from Hahn air force base in Germany. My home is Peoria, Illinois, and my folks send me your column over here.

That letter from "The Visitor" who knocked America really burned me up. I've been all over Europe. Ann Landers, rope and let me tell you there's no place like home.

The motorists here are so doggone reckless a person actually takes his life in his hands on a country road in Italy. I roared when I read "The Visitor's" criticism on drunkenness in America. One of the first things that struck me over here was the hoop-de-do at the wine festivals. These holidays last a week. Everyone from 12 years of age on up is drunk the whole time. When I hear people comment on how happy the French and Italians are, I have to laugh. They aren't happy they're stiff. Sincerely Yours,—Airman Roy L.A.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You give me a pain. The letter from "Disturbed Wife" was a corker, and your advice was the dumbest thing I ever read.

This woman suspected her husband of running around and you calmly suggested that she "get in there and pitch". I happen to know for sure, that my old man is chasing. What good would it do for me to "get in there and pitch" when he's never home?

We've been married two years and I'm his third wife. He became "restless" after three months. When I caught him dead-to-rights his excuse was that he loves me best but he's a roamer at heart.

Your advice is strictly for the birds, Mrs. Landers—"Four Eyes" (His pet name for me).

You wouldn't take medicine prescribed for arthritis if you had athlete's foot, would you? Well why in the world apply someone else's advice to your problem, which is not even slightly similar?

"Disturbed Wife" was losing out to another woman because her inhibitions, which resulted from a strict upbringing, made her a shy and unresponsive marriage partner.

With your "old man" something quite different keeps him on the prowl. He's immature and unsure of himself. He attempts to prove over and over again that he's desirable by conquering a new horizon every other day. Like I said—don't take medicine prescribed for someone whose sickness is nothing like your own.

DEAR ANN: I've been going steady with a fine man for several months. He doesn't drink or smoke, and his morals are the finest. I'm 25 and he's 29. We've both been engaged unsuccessfully and know our way around. He'd make an ideal husband BUT—

He has such terrible eating habits I'm ashamed to accept a dinner invitation with him, particularly in a private home. He heaps such enormous portions on his plate, (two and three helpings) that it shocks everyone. He uses the bread as a "pusher" and puts three pats of butter on a baked potato. Of course he overeats then complains of discomfort all evening.

This fellow was very devoted to his mother who passed away two years ago. He told me she was the world's best cook. Do you think there is any connection?

I'd marry him if it weren't for this one fault, but I can't bear the thought of eating three meals a day with a pig. Dare I mention this? Or shall I drop him?—Helen

There is undoubtedly a very real connection between your friend's gluttony (this is more than just bad manners) and his association with his mother. If he could work this out with a therapist, it would be time and money well spent.

By all means mention this to him. Since he has so many excellent qualities you'd be a fool to drop him because of this one "fault". It would be like throwing out the baby with the bathwater.

The color in milk glass is not an enamel or glaze. It is part of the glass mixture. Today's production of milk glass combines superior workmanship attained through years of experience with American know-how, and you will find that the pieces will improve with age, and even become more beautiful.

Green, White Decor Will Feature Annual Candlelight Ball

A green and white decor will deck Riverview Country club Saturday night when the membership turns out for the gala event of the summer season—the club's annual Candlelight Ball.

As in former years, party guests will dine by candlelight provided by tiny hurricane lamps set off by green huckleberry on the tables. Dinner will be served at 7:30, with this year's eight presentees and their escorts to assemble on the club porch and other guests in the dining room.

At 9:30, the young women who include the Misses Jean Davis, Patricia Eustice, Marcia Manier, Joan McBain, Mary McKee, Helen Mary Rugland, Mary Strange, all of Appleton, and Sue McConnell, Neenah, will be introduced formally to the general assembly. The presentees will enter the ballroom via an arch decked with green boughs and be presented their nosegay bouquets when introduced by John Reeve, club president.

Dancing will continue to 1 o'clock, with high school and college friends of the presentees invited to attend the ball after 10 o'clock.

At the close of the dance, the eight young women and their escorts will attend a breakfast party given by the parents of Miss Eustice, the Fred Eustices, at their home at 1640 Palisades drive. Prior to the dinner, the group will be entertained at a "cocktail" party given by Dr. and Mrs. Louis McBain, 81 Cherry court, parents of Miss McBain.

Arrangements for this year's ball are being directed by Dr. and Mrs. Robert DeCock, chairman. They are being assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Dutcher, Dr. and Mrs. James Gmeiner, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Greiner, Dr. and Mrs. William Hale, Mr. and Mrs. James McKenny, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Pasek, Dr. and Mrs. Edward J. Zeiss and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Davis. Mothers of the young women are working on the committee.

Preuss-Jorgensen Rites Read at Bear Creek

Trinity Lutheran church, route 1, Bear Creek, was the site of Sunday nuptials uniting in marriage Miss LaVonne Preuss and Gene Jorgensen, both of Berlin.

Mr. Jorgensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Jorgensen, Berlin, claimed his bride in a 1:30 double ring ceremony. Officiating was the Rev. Walter Schedler.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Preuss, route 1, Clintonville, was presented in marriage by her father. She was attended by her sister, Miss Carolyn Preuss, maid of honor, and the Misses Donna Posorske and Florence Young, both bridesmaids.

James Jorgensen was best man for his brother and Philip Pagel and Russell Young were groomsmen. Ronald Polzin and Roger Naparella performed ushering duties. After the ceremony, the newlyweds greeted friends and relatives at a dinner and reception at St. Martin Lutheran hall.

Upon return from a wedding trip to northern Wisconsin and Michigan, the couple will reside in Berlin.

The bride, a Clintonville High school graduate, is employed by the Wisconsin Power and Light company, Berlin. Her bridegroom graduated from Berlin High school and is employed by the First National bank, Berlin.

In Good Taste Pair May Not Know Obligation

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Wedding information clearly states that the man's parents should call on the girl's family as soon as possible after the engagement has become a fact. This hasn't been the way it is with us and we announced our daughter's engagement to a local boy three months ago. I've spoken to his mother once or twice on the telephone when she called here for him and I've been told by my daughter that she seems pleased with the engagement. How do we break this stalemate?

Answer: By your inviting her to your house. Although the man's family should take the initiative, it is not at all unusual for the man's family to be unaware of this convention.

Thanks For a Meal Dear Mrs. Post: I understand I am being criticized by someone for never writing a thank-you note after having been at her house for a meal. I go to a certain friend's house once or twice a year and I am never there longer than for one meal.

Answer: Although we are not expected to write a thank-you note after lunching or dining in the house of a friend (having already expressed our thanks verbally), it is never improper to do so, and there are times—especially when we cannot return this hospitality—that sending a note or possibly a few flowers, is very courteous.

Culbertson on Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

One of the most remarkable hands ever to be dealt in the world-famous Cavendish Club in New York was the following, and it caused quite a buzz of excitement among the players themselves and the large gallery of expert "kibitzers."

East, dealer.

NORTH

The bidding (rubber bridge):

2 S Pass 2 N T 3 N T
4 S 5 D Pass Pass
5 H Pass Pass 6 D
Pass Pass 6 H 7 D
Pass Pass D'ble (final)

One fantastic feature of the case was that after a more-or-less "legitimate" two bid opening by East, the opponents climbed all the way to a grand-slam contract—and not in the spirit of sacrificing, either! As a matter of fact, North had high hopes that his partner would be able to bring home the grand slam, and the second fantastic point is that South would have done just that if West' club holding had been K-13-7-4 instead of the actual K-10-7-5!

Going back to the beginning—East's tow-bid was pretty weak in high cards (only 13 high-card points) but was nevertheless acceptable because of the extremely freakish pattern.

North's sensational three-no-trump bid over West's two no trump was the key bid of the auction. This was the so-called "unusual no trump" in its ideal form. This relatively new convention asks partner to bid his better minor suit, and it is clear indeed that North was intensely interested in this sort of information. After South quite properly showed his six-card diamond suit, North jockeyed to buy the contract, very willing to be pushed to the six-level at least, and he went a step farther when the enemy persisted to six hearts—all of which was excellent bidding on North's part.

The denouement was that East, the opening two-bidder, did not take a single trick, and (to repeat) that the contract could only be beaten by West's covering every club that South led.

Rain and Golfers Mix at BDM Course

Women members of Butte des Morts Golf club and their guests traversed the course Wednesday for their guest day event despite occasional drizzles. Umbrellas spotted the course as the women competed in a flag tourney, marking their complete d strokes by planting small flags.

Announced as guest winners were the Mmes. L. S. Lawrence; Fred Oskar, Jack Gillespie, Charles Seaborne, Jr., Paul Tepper, Charles Schmidt, Gordon Matson and Wilmer Stach.

In the membership division, Mrs. E. N. Krueger took class A, 18 hole; Mrs. George Koepke won class B, 18 hole, and Mrs. F. J. Pechman scored on combined A and B, nine hole. Class C and class D, both nine hole, were taken by Mrs. Charles Holmes for the former, while the Mmes. William Keller and Martin Unmuth shared honors on the latter.

Mrs. Joseph Turley sank approaches and the trio named to play with the pro in coming week's play includes the Mmes. J. R. Wall, F. D. Farver and F. H. Dauchert.

Name Auxiliary Card Winners

Schafkopf winners at the Eagles auxiliary card party were the Mmes. George Schmidt, Edward Knaack, Hulda Plaman, Zada Gosha and Leo Steffen. They played Wednesday afternoon at the Appleton club.

Fall Hats to Show Empire Look in Fur, Feathers

Fox Fur is back in the fashion picture for fall. This hat, suggesting the Russian Cossack influence, was designed by Irene. It and the 3-yard boa are of cross fox. The boa stole is the fashion note of the season.

The High Dome look represents one phase in fall millinery styles. The hat sits on the top of the head with the brim falling over the forehead. John Fredericks' style is a yellow soleil dome cloche over a mesh veil.

Lilly Dache has fashioned a 'monkey business' hat for the autumn styles. It is the new look, deep bucket cloche which covers the entire head, framing the face. It is made of brown velours covered in monkey fur.

Romantic Mood of the fall season is depicted in a Hattie Carnegie design. This empire bonnet, following the empire clothes trend, is in sapphire blue angora felt with a froth of veil.

The Basic Cloche has taken on many variations for autumn. This elegant, dressy hat is referred to as the bubble cloche. It's 'giddy' look is due to the pink swan feathers and peacock 'eyes'. The hat is an Alice creation.

Thurs., Aug. 7, 1958 Appleton Post-Crescent C13

heavy demand on a mother. There are times when she cannot afford the time that it takes. Then it must be skipped. But there are times when it is possible, and wise people take advantage of them. Every little bit of experience in this activity helps. Even to be allowed to stand by and hand tools—a spoon, a pen, a hammer, anything the adult is using at the time—is a help not to be despised.

Encourage Child
As soon as a child can, with any degree of safety, use a tool, he should not only be allowed to do so—he should be encouraged. Blunt scissors and rubber hammers are beginner's tools and they should be outgrown as soon as may be and the child promoted to the real article.

Reality of the tools and the work is uppermost in this situation. The scissors that do not cut, the carpet sweeper that does not pick up, the hammer that pounds no nail into wood is not educational. The work that is accomplished must be real too. The wagon box must be set on wheels that go and the help given to father who is mending a broken chair must function, else the child's desire for sharing in the adult's life is unfulfilled. Check on the things in the house that a child can use and get him a few miniature tools of the sort his parents use. They will prove to be worth all the time and money they cost.

Husbands may as well be warned that every woman is going to want a fur hat this fall, and probably a fur boa to match. For these are the prescribed accessories to wear with the simple, straight-line wool dresses and understated suits of the season.

There are high fur shakos and deep fur cloches, fur berets and fur bonnets ranging from mink in all its mutations through beaver, seal and bunny to dramatic, long-haired fox. The latter hits an all-time high in dramatic effect when teamed with a matching boa, three yards long.

When it isn't fur it's feathers. There are hats covered entirely in curled ostrich, others made of such things as swan feathers and peacock "eyes." The latter are the iridescent eye-tips of peacock feathers, not real seeing eyes, you'll be glad to know.

The furs and feathers are likely to be used in high toques or deep cloches, although there are many variations. Sally Victor makes a high, back-slanting bonnet of fox, and Lilly Dache covers a deep brown velvet cloche with black monkey fur.

The Empire bonnet also is much in evidence, in draped and crushed velvet or rich metallic brocade. Some of the hats have a poke bonnet look. Others suggest the boudoir caps of another generation.

New hats must have either height or depth—there are no insignificant beanie in the fashionable lineup. When you wear a hat this fall, everybody will know it, and often it will be the most important part of your costume.

Buyers Voice Opinions

Valid Criticism About Products Aids in Factory Improvements

By The Associated Press
Complain about shoddy or poor merchandise, advises an expert. Often the merchant and the manufacturer don't know it's no good.

Although there are plenty of chronic grippers around to keep store complaint departments busy, the average consumer is too likely to shy away from making complaints, even justified ones, says Prof. Jules Barabie of Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Often merchants have found only one or two customer complaints about an item, yet upon investigation some flaw or weakness in the fabric or construction was so serious that we could not imagine every customer being happy with the purchase when she used it," he told a gathering of homemakers recently.

"Too many manufacturers have become more interested in quick eye-appeal than in good construction," insists housewares designer Freda Diamond. "We see it every day in everything from ostentatious automobiles to pots and pans."

Recently, she recalled, a manufacturer brought her three brushes in a new line. She experimented with each. "They look very nice," she conceded. "But they don't work. Not one does the job it is supposed to do."

An appliance manufacturer recently put on the market a good-looking electric frypan—and only then discovered it was impossible to remove the electric plug without scorching the cook's fingers.

"All this is bad design," continued Miss Diamond, and each instance shows that no one has taken the time or effort to find out if the item works right. The test too often these days is merely whether it looks good enough to sell well."

Our Children

Let Youngsters Help, Patri Urges Mothers

BY ANGELO PATRI

One of the child's most eager desires is to be like the grownup people about him, to do what they do, to use the tools they can use. This desire should be granted as far and as often as possible with safety to the child, not alone for the skills he learns, but for the intangible values of this sharing work with his parents and older friends.

The child who is allowed to "help" mother by wiping silver and putting it in its compartments in the drawer, who is allowed to scrape a carrot or roll out a bit of the dough and put it in the oven beside mother's is gaining an invaluable feeling of belonging to the family and sharing its responsibilities.

By using tools suited to his hands and ability to use them, the child develops manual skills, he learns to think sequentially and to organize his movements accordingly. He seeps up feelings of adequacy, self-importance and the value of co-operation. Using a little carpet sweeper, a brush and pan, a dust rag, setting a table or clearing it are valuable lessons that few schools can offer. The child who has had the privilege of such a course needs no help in reading readiness. He will be ready and rearing to go.

More Room Division

The trouble with many a room divider is that it doesn't divide the room enough. This day, the slats are often open a bookcase divider, and a change was wanted from the planter atop it that was awkwardly heavy in proportion to it, and too much like what the neighbors had. Sketched is an idea for more room division from the divider, and it's also an idea for regulating light.

A vertical blind is attached to the ceiling and is based on the divider top. During the day, the slats are often open to let the light from the dining area windows into the living room area, and the slats tilt to the angle that lets in or shuts out the amount of light wanted. At night, especially when dinner is being brought to the table, the slats close so they can't be seen through.

Will Divide Pulitzer Fund

13 Male Descendants To Get $5,441,881 Trust, Judge Rules

New York — A judge has ruled that a trust fund established by the late newspaper publisher Joseph Pulitzer should be divided among 13 male descendants. The fund is now valued at $5,441,881.

Surrogate Joseph A. Cox made the ruling yesterday in rejecting a petition by a grandson, Seward Webb Pulitzer, of Au Sable Forks, N.Y. The grandson had contended that only he and his brother, Ralph Pulitzer, Jr., of Manhattan, N.Y., should share in the principal of the fund. Ralph did not join in the petition.

The ruling by Cox allocated one-tenth of the trust to each of eight grandsons. A tenth will be shared by three sons of another granddaughter.

Seward Pulitzer's petition had been opposed by the trustees of the fund, grandson Joseph Pulitzer III and Charles J. Hentschell.

Trustees' Contentions

The trustees contended that the publisher intended the assets to be divided among his eight grandsons and the sons of his two granddaughters.

Seward Pulitzer contended that the publisher intended in a codicil in his will that the principal of the fund be divided only among male descendants living at the time of his death, and that only Seward and his brother, Ralph, Jr. were in that category.

The judge ruled that this contention was based on "a strained and unrealistic reading of a limited number of words" in the codicil without due regard for the full context.

The fund was one of several set up by Pulitzer, owner of the New York World and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, who died in 1911. The World was sold in 1931.

2 Sergeants Concede Women Top Talkers

Plattsburgh, N. Y. — The talking sergeants conceded today that the women had won — but only because the men were ordered to hold their tongues.

The air force said yesterday a 6-day-old talkathon at Plattsburgh Air Force base was attracting too much attention. Civilians were asking "Don't they have anything better to do?"

A group of sergeants trying to boost business at the non-commissioned officers' club planned the talkathon and hoped to outdo women's records of more than 90 hours.

Sgt. Walter Morin, 40, of Jamaica Plain, Mass., had talked for 77 hours when the top order came. Thomas A. Johnson, 32, of Memphis, Tenn., had dropped out at 88 hours and 37 minutes.

Oil Stocks In Demand

Moderate Trading; Marks Activity; Changes Fractional

New York — Some oils and assorted specialties were in demand in a higher stock market early this afternoon.

A few favorites rose from one to three points but most changes were fractional.

Trading was moderate, except for an opening flurry, when the ticker was late.

Texas Gulf Producing paced a strong oil group with a 2 point gain. Amerasia was ahead almost as much. Getty Oil and Gulf were up major fractions. Zenith rose almost three 1/4. I. Case, Magna Copper, Eastern Air Lines, Southern Railway and Southern Pacific were up a point or more.

There was little major business news to affect the market and traders appeared to be keeping a sharp eye of special situations. American Motors rose 1/4 to 15 1/4 but later cut the gain.

Financier Louis E. Wolfson reported his interests now have a short position of 132,000 shares of American Motors. A short position represents stock borrowed and sold in the expectation the borrower can buy back later at a lower price and make a profit.

The company also reported Rambler sales in July topped June volume.

Rails joining oils in the upswing. Motors, aircrafts, airlines and tobaccos were mostly up fractions. Steels were irregular. Coppers began lower but turned mixed.

Small gainers included Lukens, Chrysler, Mack Trucks, Douglas, Reynolds Metals, Allied Chemical, Schenley, Texas Co., Illinois Central and American Airlines.

Long term U.S. government bonds advanced moderately.

Briseis begs Achilles to keep peace with Agamemnon.

According to the ancient myths, the Greeks felt at first that a direct attack on the walled city of Troy would be a mistake. Instead they decided to ravage the land of the Trojans.

The fighting dragged on year after year. Thanks largely to the hero Achilles, a dozen Trojan strongholds were taken. Troy, however, refused to surrender.

Thoughts of ending the fighting filled the minds of both sides. Some Greeks wanted to leave the area and go home, but the leaders decided that an attack on Troy should now be tried.

Instead of waiting for the attack, the Trojans marched out from behind their walls. Prince Paris was in the lead, and called out that he would meet any Greek who might come to oppose him.

Meneclaus, a sturdy Greek, was chosen. He wounded Paris, but the prince managed to return to his city.

There was ill feeling in the Greek camp. Achilles, the mighty hero, was sulking into a quarrel with King Agamemnon over a lovely maiden named Briseis. He started to draw his sword, but thought better of this. Stalking away, he declared that he would let other Greeks do the rest of the fighting.

The help of Achilles was your scrapbook.

Paper Company Employees Get Wage Increase

Wisconsin Rapids — Consolidated Water Power and Paper company and Consoweld corporation employees will get a wage increase ranging from five to eight cents per hour. The companies signed one-year agreements Wednesday with four unions representing 2,200 production and maintenance employees, including about 200 at Consolidated's Interlake mill in Appleton.

The joint agreements bring the base hourly rate for male employees to $1.87. Dec. 24 was set as a seventh paid holiday.

The contracts were negotiated with the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, International Association of Machinists and the Plumbers' union.

Similar terms are included in a contract to be signed Monday with the United Papermakers and Paperworkers union.

Contracts with the office employees' union were signed July 22.

They aired out the George Haag home, 805 S. State street, about 1:05 Wednesday afternoon after an oil burning hot water heater smoked.

These Photographs show the first surfacing achieved on the new interstate highway system being developed in Wisconsin as a part of a new superhighway network for the nation. The views show section of new Highway 94 in Waukesha county, which will be opened for the Labor Day weekend. Interstate Highway 94 in Waukesha county will link with the Milwaukee county expressway system now under construction and with a new superhighway now under construction between Milwaukee and Chicago.

Super Highways

Rest, Speed, Beauty, Safety Goals of New Road System

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Milwaukee — Rest, speed, beauty and safety are built-in goals of the superhighway program now being launched by the state highway department with the multi-million dollar assistance of the federal treasury.

An inspection party which recently accompanied state highway department officials on a tour of interstate highway network segments under construction south of Milwaukee was impressed by some of the conceptions incorporated by the design engineers into their specifications.

Wisconsin will have 450 miles of the new super-roads, the longest link extending from Dunn county in the northwestern part of the state to the Illinois line in Rock county. One of the most useful sections will be that which will replace Highway 41 south of Milwaukee toward Chicago and be heavily used by Fox river valley traffic.

70 MPH Safe Speed

The traveler will be able to enter one of these new roads with the assurance of the best informed highway experts that an average speed of 70 miles an hour will be safe. He will have the comfort of two wide lanes in each direction, making passing easy and convenient. He will have security from intersection traffic. Access will be completely restricted to interchanges, some of them on Highway 41 so close together as to make the cost of the structures a significant item in the total investment.

There will be maximum sight distances. Such curves as are provided will be there because of safety, rather than a geographical necessity. Studies have shown that an occasional slow curve or grade is better for the motorist than an absolutely straight and level surface over a long distance. Drowsiness is less likely.

There will be cool and shady waysides for the weary traveler. The trucker or the private passenger car driver will find plenty of right-of-way space to get off the roadway to rest.

Roadsides Fenced

There will also be complete security from the livestock that sometimes wander onto the right of way of the lesser roads. Each mile of the interstate highway system will be fenced, on both sides, with woven steel fencing. Rest rooms and telephones will be provided. In all likelihood, the longer stretches of the new road will be patrolled by service cars—as on the toll roads in eastern states.

John Wyngaard, Post-Crescent staff representative, took part in a public inspection tour of progress made on the interstate highways being built in Wisconsin with the financial assistance of the federal government. This is the last of three articles in which he relates his impressions.

Not only will break-down on some of the longer stretches of the new road be awkward for the driver, since he may be some distance from a service station, but such obstructions also will impede the movement and safety of traffic. The precise plans for service car patrol will depend upon further studies of the demands for such service on similar roads in other parts of the country, including some of the major turnpikes.

The engineers also have an eye open for the scenic appetites of the road user. Contractors are carefully instructed to remove all topsoil as they start grading for the new road routes, so that it can be saved and replaced on the roadsides later to hasten the growth of grass, and possibly ornamental shrubbery. The grass will be carefully and regularly mowed.

A decision has not yet been made on the use of abutting land for highway advertising. None but official signs will be on the broad swath of right-of-way, a minimum of 400 feet, but the county governments under present law, must decide on the zoning ordinances that can regulate land use on the adjoining properties. The federal highway act encouraged the states to enact their own highway billboard prohibitions in connection with the interstate system, but the Wisconsin legislature has not acted.

The national government is paying 90 per cent of the huge cost of these super roads. But that does not tell all of the fiscal story.

State Maintenance

Maintenance of the new roads will be exclusively a liability of the state government, and will be a substantial new charge against the state highway budget, which depends upon state taxes and imposts.

Maintenance includes such costly items as snow removal and ice prevention, which will be carried on according to the higher standards demanded on the high speed routes. Others are marking, signing, roadside care and beautification, and such miscellaneous items as providing and caring for the picnic tables and rest facilities, the right-of-way boundary fencing, and painting of traffic interchanges.

Cost estimates for such new liabilities have not been made, but they are sure to be sizeable and they reduce somewhat, state officials note, the apparent generosity of the national government in subsidizing 90 per cent of the cost of the original construction.

Nor should the impatient motorist expect these glories of the road builders' art to become reality tomorrow. A full decade will be required to complete that part of the "Z" system that has been apportioned to Wisconsin, under present federal law. Wisconsin officials are proud of their progress, which is better than that of some states. But thus far only 56 miles of actual road construction, out of some 450 planned under the new program, is under contract.

Ex-Wife Wants Actor Jailed, Alimony Paid

Los Angeles —(AP)—Former actress Tita Purdom wants her ex-husband, actor Edmund Purdom, jailed. She says he's $24,000 behind in alimony payments and she is destitute.

In an affidavit filed yesterday supporting her charge, she said Purdom has lavished money on other women since their divorce in 1956, but paid only sporadically the $1,050 a month ordered for alimony and child support payments.

Among the other women, Mrs. Purdom named actress Linda Christian and said Purdom secretly married her in 1956. No such marriage has ever been publicly announced.

Mrs. Purdom said she is so poor she and her three children have been evicted eight times in a year for nonpayment of rent.

Man Burned Igniting Charcoal Fire Dies

Marinette —(AP)—Floyd Jarman, 38, of Marinette, died in a hospital Wednesday of burns received in the flareup of starter fluid he was using to ignite a charcoal fire in his yard on Tuesday. Two other persons received minor burns.
